Jamiekid says

It's funny because it's true.

Vlad says

This comic always has interesting things to say.

Byurakn says

If you're in academia, this is a must-read. I had the book lying around in my office and opening once in a while, when I got stressed. It's always good to know that you're not alone.

Scott Meeseey says

Cham has really hit his stride by this one. :)

Hannah says

I work at a university and know a fair few PhD students, but not much of this hit home. While some thought has obviously gone into the comics, the jokes are so straightforward, unsubtle and predictable that they aren't funny. I wanted to like it but I was disappointed. The best parts of this book were the comics at the end about travelling and spending time with other researchers.

Eugene Mah says

Anybody who's ever been or currently is a graduate student will find something to identify with in PhD Comics. This is a collection of Piled Higher and Deeper strips from 2009-2012. If you've been following the strip since then, there won't be much new to see and you've just purchased the book to complete your collection (like I did). Even if you've read them already online, they're still funny to read in book form.

It's also the thickest of the PhD collections. Collected at the end of the book are also the PhD on the Road strips published between 2009-2012.

I love this series!
