Sisco has just landed in Paris in the pursuit of Enia – an alpha it-girl he’s totally crazy about. Problem: she’s already completely cuckoo for another guy that most scientists would describe as “freaking hot!” Further problem: she traveled to Paris with the hot guy with the definite intention of making out mucho. Furtherer Problem: hot guy and Enia have adjoining rooms at the Mercury hotel and very little adult supervision. Sisco is about ready to jump into la Seine, when his evil Godmother puts in his hands THE LOVE GAME, "Le Jeu de l’Amour", a strange old book that supposedly gives its owner the power to seduce any girl. He unlocks the game by offering a few drops of his blood, and... SHAZAM! He unleashes a world of demonic troubles that won’t stop until he wins the game by seducing Enia or loses it, damning their souls for all eternity.

Luh Cordeiro says

The book tells the story of this completely normal guy who is forced into a magical game. And, as any normal person, at first, he freaks out. The main characters being realistic is what made me like this story so much. The books is quite fast-paced, with lots of humor and little problems. All the situations, though crazy, were not forced, what is great. Bad side is that some questions were not solved (unless they were and I just didn't realize at all), what make me a bit angry, but that's OK.

This would be the right choice for anyone looking for a light, quick, funny little adventure. I'd certainly recomend it. =)
