The Light of the Lover's Moon Marcia Lynn McClure

Violet Fynne was haunted—haunted by memory. It had been nearly ten years since her father had moved the family from the tiny town of Rattler Rock to the city of Albany , New York . Yet the pain and guilt in Violet’s heart was as fresh and as haunting as ever it had been.

It was true Violet had been only a child when her family moved. Still—though she had been unwillingly pulled away from Rattler Rock—pulled away from him she held most dear—her heart had never left—and her mind had never forgotten the promise she had made—a promise to a boy—to a boy she had loved—a boy she had vowed to return to.

Yet, the world changes—and people move beyond pain and regret. Thus, when Violet Fynne returned to Rattler Rock, it was to find that death had touched those she had known before—that the world had indeed changed—that unfamiliar faces now intruded on beloved memories.

Had she returned too late? Had Violet Fynne lost her chance for peace—and happiness? Would she be forever haunted by the memory of the boy she had loved nearly ten years before?

I Loved this book. I had to read it again after I finished it. Such a great story I love the story of the Light. I loved the surprise at the end brought tears to my eyes. Such a great book. Very easy read, great fun adventures and it is a story that just makes you feel good after you are done reading it.

I really love this author and this was another cute story. I loved the two main characters. Their chemistry was great and their back story even cuter. My only real complaint was the fact that I felt like it ended to fast. I wished they would of had a few more conversations and we would of had a little more tention. I just felt like all of a sudden they were confessing there love, and all the mysteries of the book we being summed up im like five pages. It was to rushed. It's almost like the author was all of a sudden in a hurry to get he book done. I still loved it, I guess it just left me wanting a little.

Yes it was a novella and yes it was a Kindle freebie so it's kind of hard to believe but I really liked this story! I loved reading about a boy and a girl who were devoted to each other as children, separated only to be reunited as adults a decade later. This book had all the elements I love--emotion (I cried three times), fun, and plenty of sparks without being overly graphic or over the top. There were a few "cheesy" moments but it's romance people...

WOW,SOOOOO GOOD!!! Absolutely one of my favorites of Marcia's! From the title I pictured it to be strictly a sweet romance of lovers under a moon, lol, but it was so much more than that! It had all the angst, jealousy, mystery, angry brooding man, and passion that I love in a romance! It made my heart ache for the characters.

Second Read Nov 2011: I love everything about this story. It's such a sweet romance. Definitely one of my top 5 favorite McClure books!!

First Read April 2011: This was such a fun, charming story. I loved it! I thought Violet was a great character, as well as Stoney. I loved their story and could really feel the chemistry between them. I especially loved their first kiss, so sweet!

The majority of the story was told from Violet's POV, with a few of Stoney's thoughts thrown in here and there. The only thing I really wanted was at least a glimpse into Stoney's thoughts when he finally saw Violet for the first time after those ten long years apart. Otherwise, I thought the story was perfect. Really a charming story and one I would re-read over and over again!

Yes my pilgrimage continues with this newest addition to my local library! (I'm a college aged kid-I'll take free books anytime!) This one here goes out to my Marcia club...you know who you are! hahaha LOVED this one! The Queen of Clean Kissing at her best! As I have been reading (and who are we kidding re-reading AND re-reading) Marcia books I'm finding that her later writing is just becoming that much greater! I love the depth that she is putting into her characters! This book makes me want to call up my childhood chums and climb trees again and play night games and tell ghost stories! I have one specific thing that I absolutely loved about this book and it's how she tied romance into the night. It's not the moon-it's the lover's moon. And I loved the stars but if I go in depth into that I'd have to mark this as a spoiler and I don't wanna! :) But I'm okay with leaving a teaser and I'm okay with it because I get to quote a character I adored from this book!

"I left the most beautiful part of the house to you 'cause it reminds me of you, all sparkling with life and love. I left the stars for you, Violet Fynne." -Buddy Chisholm

How can you not fall in love with Marcia's books? Another fantastically fun romance. Violet has been taken from her hometown and her best friend/first love. After 10 long years she returns to find the boy (now a man) that she just can't seem to forget. She is heartbroken to find that Stoney seems to have quite gotten over her! Stoney has been trying to put the past behind him. He was broken when Violet left him and never wants to set himself up for that kind of hurt again. A womanizer? Puhleeze! I love the fun and youthful friendship we get to see in the memories of Violet. The way their new relationship heats up (yowza!) and develops is touching, scorching, sweet and tons of fun. Romance, romance, romance! What a great first kiss. I loved the fun little romantic twist at the end. Classic Marcia at its best :)

Wow this is classic Marcia Lynn McClure at its best. I loved this one! Currently available only as a 128 page ebook - it was well worth my money. Seems most of her ebooks eventually get expanded and printed and I'd pay money again to read this story if she lengthens it, although this one left me completely satisfied despite it's shorter length.

This book has vaulted onto my elite Marcia Favorites List, and that's saying something because I LOVE with an unhealthy fervor Shackles of Honor and Crimson Frost.

I started reading The Light of the Lover's Moon at midnight as a little light reading before I fell asleep (what was I thinking--I've read enough Marcia to know better) and I ended up staying up until 4:00 a.m. savoring this tale. It's a short one so you probably don't even need four hours to read it, but I found myself reading passages again and again just so I could sigh and swoon all over again.

This is Marcia "Queen of Clean" at her best.

This is where my love started. I happened to see it on the shelf at the library, I was keeping myself busy reading during a horrible pregnancy. I was hooked I didn't have to cover my eyes reading this book and embarrassed by it. It was great a book writer that was clean and actually good, I WAS HOOKED!

Started with this one. It was on the new shelf at the library and caught my eye. Still one of my favorites!

Kathryn says

Another favorite of mine with the Marcia's books. I can't wait till this is in book form. A dear friend got the e-book and then printed it and that is the only way I was able to enjoy this book so far. It has the feel of "Anne of Green Gables." Childhood friendships turned to love and the promise of return when they are forced to part. After ten years, Violet keeps her promise to Stoney to come back to their childhood town to him. He only wanted her to promise to remember him...that she did along with the guilt of leaving him to deal with his abusive father alone.

She returns a 21 year old single woman and the new school teacher. She learns about Stoney from the children and hears all the town rumors about his questionable character. When she finally meets up with him, he seems indifferent to her presence which unsettles her because he has the same drawing effect as before. After Stoney tiptoes around his feelings for her, the truth is revealed about his love for her along with the secret behind the "light of the Lovers' moon" the lights in the old Crisholm house due to the supposed ghosts of the man and woman who used to live there.

Stoney and Violet have one more surprise from Buddy Crisholm, in a letter he tells Violet that he left her Sonora's stars' which turn out to be diamonds in the ceiling of the master bedroom that he shared with his wife.

I loved this sweet innocent love story that started out so young and grew over time and distance.

Kristina says

I loved it! What a delightful story! Sweet, clean and, in my opinion, reminiscent of L.M Montgomery's "Anne of Green Gables".

Violet Fynne and Stoney Wrenn were close childhood friends who were separated when Violet's family moved away from the remote country town of Rattler Rock when she was just 11 years old. Violet promised her good friend Stoney (13 years old at the time) that she would come back to him. She did not know when or how, but she promised to return to Rattler Rock, fearing for Stoney's physical and mental well being at the hands of his abusive father.

At 21 years of age Violet succeeded in securing a place as a school teacher in her old hometown. Eager to meet up again with Stoney, she also feared his reaction after 10 years apart. Lucky for Violet , Stoney was still living in Rattler Rock, unattached, handsome and just as endearing as she remembered him. Cautiously, they rekindled their old friendship and realized they never stopped loving each other. The innocent love they shared as children was not lost over the years they were apart. If anything, that love intensified into a passionate love when they met up again as adults.

This was such a lovely book and worthy to be read more than once. Ms Marcia Lynn McClure, please keep those sweet romances coming.

HOLY COW!!! I loved this book and the sweet love story. It is how I think the world as should be. . . maybe that's why I love Marcia Lyn McClure's books. There is the man who is a hard worker, with good morals and not feminine and the sweet girl who has a conscience and is kind to those around her. This book was a great read, the only disappointment was that the end came to soon!!!

Heidi says

What can I say....the Queen of clean has done it again!!!! Thank you Marcia for ANOTHER favorite! I absolutely ADORED this book!! I've been saving it for about a year:) I have to read 50 books or so and then I treat myself to a Marcia Lyn...(NOBODY writes kissing like she does. NO ONE!!!!)...I'm savoring them. I own every book and I only have 4 left that I've never read:(....PLEASE PLEASE keep writing Marcia! Don't ever stop!!!!

Quick,fun,clean read...with chemistry-a-plenty;)lol

I LOVE moons, so of course I had to buy this e-book, even though I prefer a book in my hand. Hopefully someday I will be able to have a book in my hand with that gorgeous cover, and equally delightful inside pages. :) I love my Marcia McClure, what can I say more? :)
