Marisol's days with Fin are dwindling and they still haven't discussed where they stand, and that's not the only thing Marisol doesn't know about him. I actually count down to the release of the next episode in this series. Each book is released once a month and it feels like watching your favourite TV show as each episode comes out.

I absolutely love these two characters that Chelsea has created. You have Marisol who comes from nothing, though she has so much ambition and independence. She is an inspiring character. Then you have Fin; he's had everything handed to him though he is an extremely tortured soul. As Fin's secrets unravel, I feel like I'm holding my breath. I'm just waiting for the ball to drop on these characters and I have a feeling that it's going to hurt not just them, but me as well. I'm one of those emotional readers and I get attached to all the characters that I read about. It wouldn't have been the first time that Chelsea has broken my heart with one of her novels.

I love that Fin is such a complex character in this book. You can start to really see the two different personas that he takes on. I'm literally waiting on the edge of my seat to see what secrets he reveals next. You can see the vulnerability that Marisol is starting to bring out in him and I can only hope that she is the one thing on Earth that could break down the walls he has around his heart and put him back together again.

I needed Episode #4 yesterday. This story is captivating and addictive. I feel like a junkie waiting for my next fix – I'm a book junkie! ;)

Before we begin let me just address something. I'm mad at all of you. Yes YOU stern look How did someone not tell me about this fantastic serial? I'm in love with it, L-O-V-E, love. Now that we've got that out of the way let's move on to the review. Oh, and by the way big 'ole spoilers if you haven't read the first two episodes.

So when we last left my favorite couple, Fin had finally quit being a dickhead and was letting Marisol in. Or more accurately, Marisol was letting him in . . . to her panties. In many books where the man has a bit of a control issue, he's an asshole in and out of the bedroom. But one of the many things that make Deep Surrendering unique is that Fin has this Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde thing going on. Which yes, I know sounds terrible, but is actually ridiculously hot. Nervous boy one minute, demanding sex god the next, the ability Fin has to flip his switch is as unnerving as it is exciting. His "depravity" (Fin's words not mine) is such contrast to his normally sweet and sexy demeanor. It makes his character more complex and interesting than any of the dominant males I've read up to this point.

But Fin isn't the only one breaking the bdsm romance mould. Anyone looking for a strong female character, look no further. Marisol is an absolute delight. Her character is real and easy to relate to. Yes, of course there are moments (Oh, you had sex with prostitutes? No biggie.) that are surreal but it's a book, of course there are going to be moments like that. What I can relate to is her ability to be insecure about the little things but stand firm when it matters. There's a scene in which Fin doesn't consider asking Marisol about contraceptives before they have sex. She had the strength to get mad at him even though it might make him run away again and it was awesome. Finally a heroine who knows how to pick her battles: spanking and delayed gratification, yes; forgetting a condom, hellllllll no. Plus her irrational fears and random thoughts are hilarious.

Episode One & Two are definite 4.5 stars for me. Episode Three didn't reveal as many secrets as the previous novellas. I still enjoyed it very much. Each layer Fin reveals makes me want more. But Episode Three felt more like filler. I still liked it and I know it serves to move the story forward, I just didn't love it like I did Episode One & Two. I'm excited to see what the next chapter in Fin and Marisol's story brings. The more I learn about Fin's wicked, twisted depravity the more I want to fall deeper down the rabbit hole. I wait on bated breath for Episode Four.

Fin: Putting into words the way I felt about her was almost impossible, but I knew it wasn't love. Couldn't be love. It was too soon, she was too sweet, I was too bad for her. We didn't live in the same worlds. I couldn't...

So Marisol and Fin are running out of time together. Ughhh..we pick up where we left off in Episode 2 of Deep Surrendering. The pair are still trading secrets for sex. Fin reveals a huge secret and we begin to understand why Fin is the way he is. Honestly I feel sorry for him. He and Marisol are growing very close. It's killing me to read, I'm so full of angst and worry of these two. I mean seriously can't they see they are made for each other?! I know I know that's not part of their arrangement or whatever but seriously. I love Episode 3 so much more than Episode 2. I also was so excited to read the bonus scene from Fin's POV. It was nice getting to crawl around in his tortured brain. Chelsea M. Cameron is amazing! I cannot wait for Episode 4!!

Emma says

I've only just realized that I'm experiencing the same mixed emotions that Marisol must be feeling with every secret that Finn reveals. The levels of anticipation are through the roof waiting for the moment when something that is revealed to tip the scales one way or another.

Finn is like a twisty, deviant Jekyll and Hyde with the two sides of his personality. Further highlighted by Mari thinking of him as light and dark. With each revelation we get to see into Finn's soul forming a personal connection. I have to be honest I didn't know how I was going to cope with his revelations in this episode following on from Episode 2 (I can't imagine what on earth Mari feels in the moment before each secret is verbalized) However, Chelsea has given us more emotional secrets rather than Finn's proclivities.

The cracks are beginning to show in his carefully constructed facade and his vulnerability is showing through. The emotional revelations cut a deep path of understanding and empathy for Finn, that I think I desperately needed after some of his disclosures. I've got to be honest, I would never have seen these particular twists coming. Shocking yes but they do make Finn far more relatable.

Deep Surrendering is an emotionally consuming story, it's very hard to wait for the next installment :)

MICHELLE'S REVIEW

Oh. My. God.

I am so in love with Mari and Fin. Where episode 2 was all sex and hot and sex, episode 3 was also hot sex but also A LOT of emotion. In this episode we find ourselves really seeing these two opening up to each other.

Both of them are realizing that their feelings are running so deep and they are both scared for very different reasons. And who can blame them? Relationships are scary!

There is still some really steamy sex in here so don't you worry. But what I loved about this installment is there was definitely a deeper emotional connection happening between these two.

I am DYING to know what happens in Episode 4 as these two take their relationship to a new level emotionally!!! Give it to me no ChelCam!!!

I still like Deep Surrendering (Episode 3), but I feel like we reached the mellow part of the story. When I started the serial it pack a lot in a short amount of time. So, when I got to episode three not a lot happens. We don't get a lot a juicy secrets from Fin. However, we learn a little about Fin's childhood, which explains a little why he's kind of emotionally stunted. This helps understand he has a hard time being in a relationship, but he's trying.

Now I'm left wondering what's going to happen in the next episode. What's going to happen? Is he going to revert to old habits or is he really going to make it work with Marisol. So, here we are at the point where we must wait. Ugh, I hate waiting. Honestly, this wasn't bad, but it wasn't my favorite section. However, it has me hanging on by a thread, because I WANT TO KNOW what happens. Till next month.

NO, NO, NO, NOOOOO! You did NOT just end an episode that way! Insert pouty face and foot stomping here. See! Do you see what I'm saying? Just when things get good Chelsea ends the episode. I feel like a fish that was baited, hooked and is now flailing around hoping to find the next damn novella in this series. Humph...

Marisol and Fin are...maybe an item? I'm not sure if they're officially boyfriend/girlfriend, but they're well on their way. Well, they are if Fin doesn't totally mess this whole thing up with his insecurities and control issues. I wonder what made him that way. Had to have been his dad. If I were a betting woman I'd put some money down on it. There is this sinking suspicion in the bottom of my belly that his dad was some kind of abuser. Just my two cents.

This episode is a lot steamier. There are multiple sex scenes, which beats being left completely unsatisfied on a couch any day. Marisol begins to branch out more, trusting Fin to take care of her needs without harming her. There is some kink, but not an obnoxious amount. We get to see more into the nature of each character. Both are beginning to compromise for one another, and a real relationship is forming. The whole process seems to be a lot more difficult for Fin. There are two sides to that man...

Fun Fin would let me hold his hand, kiss him, and hug him. Dark Fin didn't want to be touched, kept in control, and only kissed me if he wanted to. I liked them both.

Remember how I wasn't sure if I liked Fin or not? I think I do. I don't want to commit to that, 'cause at any moment the man could up and make me change my mind. Some of these secrets... They're tough to swallow. Again, they're not even the worst of the worst. I can only imagine what's to come. Thank God I only have to wait until next month!

Oh Chelsea Cameron, you are killing me with these little pieces of this couple I have grown to love. I want all of them now. Patience has never been my strongest virtue.

I loved episode 3 just as much as I loved 1 and 2. Marisol and Fin's story continues on with them having a little bit of time together before Fin goes off to Europe for business. Fin gives her a couple more secrets which mean we get a couple more hot scenes between the two that were amazing as always.

I adore this couple. Fin is so damaged and I am dying to see what it is underneath those clothes he insists on wearing all the time.

The anticipation is killing me. I think I might be able to wait until close to the end of June to see what happens next but I am not sure.

Keep going Chelsea! This is an amazing ride!

Thank you so much for my copy of Deep Surrendering episode 3 that was gifted to me to facilitate this review.

Seeing Chelsea M. Cameron's latest Deep Surrendering release pop up on my Kindle is getting close to becoming the highlight of my month. Deep Surrendering (Episode 3) gave me back my fix of the ever-mysterious Fin and it was worth the wait!

This novella hones in on Marisol and Fin's relationship as the days they have left together run out. I liked how their stories developed in this episode and think it will be important as more of the series plays out. I just love their crazy chemistry the more it goes on. I was also glad to see a bit more of Chloe in this book too. She's a great supporting character although has quickly been overtaken as my favourite side character by Carl, who I love!

The sexual chemistry was notched up a bit in Episode 3 and was written brilliantly by Chelsea. The revealing of secrets remains intriguing too and I'm desperate to find out more! Which, of course, is clever writing by Chelsea since Episode 4 becomes another must read. ;)

I'm still waiting for the episode which makes me really stop and think - wow - but I know it's coming. Deep Surrendering (Episode 3) felt slightly less dramatic than the previous two instalments which gives me high hopes that we're leading up to something which will blow me away, and I am so looking forward to it!

You guys. This series. Seriously. I can't get enough. While I'm reading, I don't want the episode to end and once I'm finished, I'm desperate to get the next installment. I am completely, utterly hooked.

The third episode has the steamy, sexy scenes I've come to expect from this series, but there are also some serious confessions and revelations made. I'm as emotionally invested in these characters as they are in each other. Each new bit of Fin that's uncovered surprises me and endears him more to me. I can't talk a lot about the plot because I don't want to ruin this story for you.

Things were just about to get seriously hot when this book ended, so needless to say, I can't wait to pick up the story in episode four when it's released in a couple weeks. I just can't get enough of this pair and their complicated and racy relationship.

I received a copy of this book from the author in exchange for an honest review.

Cocktails and Books says

If you haven't been reading the DEEP SURRENDERING series by Chelsea M. Cameron, you're missing out on the fabulous Fin. He's a very complicated hero who has a somewhat complicated relationship with Marisol. But I think as the saga continues, we're going to find Marisol is definitely going to be a game changer for Finn and his plans.

The more we get to know Fin, the more I really like him. His "one secret" agreement with Marisol gives us insight into the man. He's obviously suffered, but exactly what that is is a mystery, Marisol is a character that I'm starting to like more, especially as she does what she can to separate herself from her controlling parents. But I have to wonder if she's jumping from one controlling situation to another with Fin.

This is most definitely a series you have to read in order, but luckily each installment is fairly short and the author is releasing an installment a month. Each installment is more addictive than the rest, making me quite anxious to see what happens next.

I didn't want this episode to end! I was like "NOOOOOOO!!!" Cannot wait for the next one! I love how Fin is starting to really let Marisol in, and seeing their relationship blossom is awesome. I just hope she doesn't go running once all the secrets are out. I'm really hoping upon all hopes that they get their Happily Ever After! I HIGHLY recommend!

After reading episode 2, I couldn't pass the opportunity to hop onto the next installment of DEEP SURRENDERING, by Chelsea M. Cameron.

First reviewed on Literaria <http://sede-literaria.blogspot.com>

Marisol and Fin are together, trying out their exhilarating arrangement of exchanging a secret for unrestricted intimacy. Things are escalating between them, feelings going deeper while their encounters grow hotter.

Marisol has to walk a fine line between Fun fin and Dark Fin, never knowing when she'll push too far but relishing every second that gets them closer to each other.

I loved every page of this episode. It was so deliciously naughty, but at the same time the emotional tension was off the charts. Sweet moments of the normal dating kind abounded and made the reading so much cuter. Everything was getting so intense because they are exploring so many possibilities together, freeing their bodies and minds bit by bit even though the pleasure was tainted by Fin's oncoming departure on a trip.

And then it came to an end. I have to know what happens next! It's my favourite episode so far. I need more, please!

Deep Surrendering Episode 3 by Chelsea M. Cameron continues Fin and Marisol's story as they grow closer despite Fin leaving soon. Fin has held up his end of the deal and gives Marisol a secret every time they have sex. They continue to date as well as explore the physical side of their relationship and both of them are experiencing feelings that they have never felt before. Fin is still struggling with showing his darker side to Mari, but he also is beginning to want to have more with her than he usually is able to handle. Mari is accepting of Fin's darker side and even enjoys it, but she knows the deadline on their relationship is approaching and is scared of what will happen to them then. As they enjoy the time they have together and they continue to develop stronger feelings for one another, is it possible for them to have a future together or will their relationship end in heartbreak for them both?

I really enjoyed this installment in Fin and Mari's story. Fin is opening up to Mari more every day, and he is exploring his sweet side as well as the dark side. I liked that he and Mari are able to be open with one another and that instead of running Fin has started to talk to Mari. He is able to show Mari the darkest parts of himself and even if she struggles with it, they deal with it together. Fin is still particular about how they can have sex and the circumstances of them being physical, but he is becoming more open and is willing to try to give Mari more after she has done the same for him. I liked seeing him open up to her more about his past, and we do get to learn more about why he is through his secrets. I really loved seeing him be so sweet and thoughtful with Mari though. He plans dates for her that show how much he is always thinking about her and how much he is starting to care for her. They continue to be super hot and sexy together, but they are also developing a much stronger emotional connection as well. I liked seeing them be more playful together and have a bit of fun as well.

I am really enjoying this serial, and with each installment it just gets better and better. I know that a lot of people are hesitant to start serials until they are finished because of cliffhangers, and these installments all end with a cliffhanger. But honestly these episodes are really good and are worth the read. Fin and Mari continue to grow on me with each installment, and I can't wait to see where Chelsea M. Cameron is taking them. I wish that these were being released quicker, but that is just because I am impatient and I want more of the characters. I would definitely recommend this serial to anyone who likes their romance to have depth and be extremely steamy. These installments are hot, but they also show so much growth as Fin and Mari navigate their feelings and the new circumstances they find themselves in. I can't wait for the next episode, and to see what happens for these two next.
