Robbie says

Wow, pleasantly disturbing. I love reading these horror shorts in between novels sometimes, and this compilation certainly doesn't disappoint. Obviously not for the faint of heart, or weak of stomach, almost every one of these stories delivers a perfect combo of shock, gore, and chills. I liked it.

David Church says

Kind of a mixed bag of short stories - I have to admit, reading during December I was hoping for more Christmas related stories, I should have researched it before impulse buying Damn it! Some pretty good stories, some kind of eh and a few standouts. Face by Patrick Shand thought was pretty damn creepy. Enjoyed Ghunt by Lee Thomas, loved Taco Meat by John McNee, Lee Thompson & Bentley Little were pretty good as well. Worth checking out.

Dave Pope says

Good collection of short horror stories with bite. This is not a collection for everyone as I would place it in the extreme horror category and these are bloody, twisted tales and punches aren't pulled in getting the reader to squirm.

Steve Lowe says

I'm totally in this shit, yo.

Ty Schwamberger says

My story, "Hung With Care", is contained in this collection.

Danielle says

Entertaining collection of short horror stories.

Douglas Castagna says

Uneven but highly entertaining compilation of stories that relate to various holidays. Nothing here stood out as great, but the stories were solid, and a nice themed anthology was produced.

Shadow Girl says

I finally got this one re-read & re-reviewed! I was so upset when the first 2 were lost - along with all my notes :(

So... check out the new review on BBB!

Joanie says

Really mixed feelings on this. Some of these were great, funny or poignant; some had some awful dialogue and unbelievable characters; most made me want to vomit a little. It's worth a read if you have a stomach for it, but for my taste I should have spread it out more.

Shelly says

Great anthology, I thought all the stories were going to be Christmas based but the common theme is ANY holiday. Be warned - some of these are pretty gruesome, all of them were good to great. Usually there are at least a couple of stories I don't care for in an anthology (only natural with so many different writing styles) but not this time.

A nice little antidote to holiday sweetness overload.

Wendy says

OK a couple of stories were alright but mostly it was very graphic and very gross. I guess I should have expected that but I will now pass this book onto someone I'm sure will enjoy it, someone who is into graphic gore...my husband :)

Jarrold Scarbrough says

Wow, this is one hell of a fun horror collection! I took my time reading the stories, as I generally can't focus on short stories if I read more than a couple at a time. This collection was very impressive. Typically, a horror anthology has a couple big name writers, some up and comers, and some unheard of talent: and the stories range from outstanding to just horrible. This book had the typical cast of authors, however, there really weren't any stories I disliked. I can definitely say that for the "new to me" authors, I want to read more of their stuff! Every holiday is covered here, and you are guaranteed to have some fun with the stories! They are not for the faint of heart, so be warned!

Mark says

Eh... I'm not a fan of short stories. I do like gross-out horror. This book's stories were ok, some were pretty good, even. 3 stars isn't a bad review. Read it for what it is.

Lori says

Overall, I wanted to rate this anthology 2 Stars but the stories that were really good, were REALLY GOOD. Of course, one of my personal favorites was Wrath James White's "Pascal's Wager" - but that will come as a surprise to no one since I do love him.

Lee Thompson says

Pretty good, but somewhat unbalanced in quality, I think. Favorites included stories by Jack Ketchum, myself (of course), Joe Lansdale, Marie Green, and Lee Thomas.
