Stepbrother Catfish Izzy Sweet

I'm in love with a man I've never met...

We found each other on an online dating site.

After my mom remarried and moved away, texting with him every day makes me feel less lonely.

Talking to him is so easy. He just has this way of making me feel important and I feel like I can tell him anything.

The only problem is we haven't yet met face to face. There's always some emergency keeping him from meeting with me, some disaster that causes him to flake.

But tonight is the night. This is so going to happen.

I'm finally going to meet the man of my dreams and I won't let anyone or anything get in my way...

Not even my jerk of a stepbrother, Andrew, who seems determined to ruin my life.

Hot and exciting, quiet Hailey is putting in time at her stepfather business so she can open her own bakery. She starts chatting online with a man named AJ. They finally decide to meet up and things go south. He apologizes and they make plans to meet up. The chemistry is off the charts when they are both around each other. But what happens when Hailey finds out the truth of who AJ really is. Awesome read.

I'm trying to think of what I have to say about this book...

It kept me interested from start to finish.
So I really did enjoy it.

This book is a little over the top for me. It had great potential but fell in the exaggeration grammar used. I felt the heroine was sometimes a little annoying. You have the heroine working for the her step brother who can be a major jerk. The book was very obvious that I got bored. not for me.

Good story line

I can see where readers think the heroine is a wuss and yhe hero is an a-hole. But i rather liked it.

I don't want to spoil it for you, buy the heroine is lonely, hasn't been in any relationships, and is over thr moon with AJ and having a hard time with her mother remarrying. Andrew, the hero and her step brother, picks on her. This story is from the heroines POV so we can guess at Andrews reactions.

I thought yhe heroine was lonely but had a lot of insecurities like some women can have when they are relationship shy. She wanted to take a chance for her HEA but she also does not want to be a fool and keep making the same mistakes. She does not have a bestie she can talk about this so it's how she figures everything out.

Andrew is rich and he wants our heroine but he yhinks he cannot have her and he does what he thinks will draw her attention yo him and also draw her out of her shell (yhis is my personal oppinion).

Buy i think you should give this book a chance. There's a reason why we have so many genres.

My goodness..the drama. It's like watching a soap opera. I feel like I just got off from a roller coaster. The Hero was a former manwhore before he's involved with the Heroine. And I'm not judging that. But the heroine annoyed the crap out of me. Always running from the Hero after she gives in a little too fast, IMO. Rinse, repeat. I even skimming the sex scenes because I'm just bored with it. The hero needs to grovel really bad. And I don't see that. I'm a bit disappointed because I kind of liked the story.

I should have listened to my angel side when it said, "it's a stepbrother book, you'll hate it" rather than my devil side which said, "but it has catfish in the title and you love that show so you might like this."

As the title kind of gives away, Hailey is catfished by her step, Andrew. She's been talking to a guy she met online and we start the book the day she's supposed to meet AJ for the first time. And that's where the story falls apart.

Hailey is quite young, only 18 and is naive relative to relationships. Of course AJ stands her up but after an apology and her forgiveness (which I don't understand) she agrees to meet him at his apartment, where NONE OF IT MAKES SENSE. The apartment is dark and he keeps like that while he decides he's going to sleep with her first and turn the lights on later. And not once does she protest, or try to figure out who he is??? I might find it easier to believe if we knew if she had any sort of relationship with Andrew to begin with, but all of the stories that are relayed about this guy are that he's an a-hole... which makes me wonder what's up with this family to begin with.

Nothing in this book is appropriately fleshed out; I don't understand the relationship between Hailey and her mother, and her stepfather nor her stepbrother Andrew who seems to have a split personality. Andrew when he's the a-hole and AJ when he's the nice guy. I was getting whiplash.

He's a liar and manipulative; she's quite submissive in nature (although this never becomes a D/s kinda thing, so no worries there). But yet they somehow love each other... and he's not all that romantic.

I might have felt more for Hailey had I been privvy to the intricacies in her online relationship with AJ, instead I just felt sorry for her that she wasn't smarter about herself to not get in this mess in the first place.

DNF 44%

I am done. I am so done with this book. I have so many issues it's not even funny. So this originally starts off with Hailey in her office pining for "AJ". However he stands her up and she's devastated. Go onto the next day, she receives a text to say he's sorry and to come over to his flat. "Which is super luxurious penthouse suite" how could anyone resist?

SO... this is where things just get so stupid. The apartment is PITCH black. And she calls out to him, no response. She messages him and his phone starts buzzing. He then mysteriously appears (this is all happening in the dark) they then kiss and then start to have sex. In the dark. Without knowing who the mysterious AJ is. It then comes to the morning and she realises to her horror that it's her stepbrother.

They then meet up, and when I say this I'm not lying. He literally MAKES her stay with him for a week or whatever. They then start whatever, it's not even a relationship they're just sleeping with each other. But obviously she has to become attached to an ego sensitive prick of a man. He treats her like shit, but everything's okay because he's rich and handsome. NO. JUST STOP!

He then has a girlfriend, who comes to his flat. YET SHE STILL STAYS WITH HIM.

This is where my journey ends, I'm not about weak female characters or male characters who are dominant and selfish and think it's okay to treat women like shit.

The lead female role is like Bella Swan but a thousand times worse.

I'm done, I'm so done with this book. Absolute trash. I honestly hate giving reviews like this, but it honestly angered me so much.

Stepbrother Catfish

I really enjoyed this book. Hailey and Andrew/AJ have such a love/hate relationship, it keeps you on your toes as to how the story will go. I recommend it.

Couldn't put it down

Lots of drama, it could have its very own episode in Days of Our Lives, if they haven't already featured anything already like it. That show has been around for as long as I have, I'm sure. Anyway, I loved it. I was skeptical as it all unraveled, but it kept me entangled through conclusion. May have a new favorite author to follow in my list. ?

Fre06 Begum says

Depending on how a character is written and the circumstances I can still read a book where either main MC is in another relationship. I don't like knowing though in this book that the h most likely would have still ended up in bed with the H even knowing he had a girlfriend (something she herself admitted) I want my main characters to have enough morals and respect for themselves and others to not want to get involved with an attached person. This h was weak and not likeable for the reasons I stated.
