Daughter of Eve. Leader of the Resistance. Mankind's savior. Dawn is supposed to be the ultimate weapon against the bloodthirsty hybrids that control the desolate planet.

But she didn't inherit superhuman speed or virus-curing blood.

She's just a human.

The pursuit to unlock her power lures her into a venomous trap, where silver eyes seduce, fangs incite pleasure, and love and devastation wear the same handsome face. He's her deepest desire, greatest enemy, and the key she's been searching for.

With humanity balancing on an arrow's edge, she must win his heart or destroy it.

An ARC was provided in exchange for an honest review.

This book is the conclusion to the Trilogy of Eve. Dawn, daughter of Eve is searching the Yukon of Canada to destroy the last breeding ground of the monstrous hybrids. She discovers a mansion fortress in the middle of nowhere. She becomes trapped with a man of unearthly beauty who could be her demise or man's salvation.

OMG! Holy Hotness! This will probably the best book I read in 2017.

Dawn of Eve has it all. It's dystopian, post apocalyptic, metaphysical, erotic sci-fi with horror, monsters, hot alpha men, a very sexy hero, romance, and a HEA to die for. Each scene is carefully described, the characters are three dimensional, you feel their pain, angst, lust and love. The story is told from Dawn's POV. The heat level is intense. I didn't want this story to end. I just couldn't put it down. (This book was shorter than the first two. I think it will be close to 300 pages in print.) I LOVED this entire trilogy. In this series the women are strong and intelligent, their men are alpha to the core and they respect their women. Pam Godwin should be listed along with the likes of George R.R. Martin, Anne Rice, J.R. Ward and Stephen King. Her writing is stellar. The editing and story consistency are perfect. She doesn't add text to pad out the volume so that she can stretch her books out into a series. She doesn't use repetitive descriptions of characters' mannerism. She doesn't use clinical or "clean" words to describe a sex scene. I highly recommend this book to anyone who likes a mix of genres like I listed above.

**FULL REVIEW****

"You've never seen the sun." My heart ached. His eyes opened and roamed over my hair. "I imagine it looks a lot like this." Lifting a fiery lock he tenderly stroked the strands. "And this." He traced a finger around one of my eyes and lingered on the outer corner. "My Dawn. Your eyes are addictive...so blinding and painful it's like staring into a lost sunrise after twenty years of darkness."

Reading this last installment of the Trilogy of Eve I truly felt...I don't know what I felt. My heart ached for the girl who held a heavy weight upon her shoulders. It raced for the boy she fell in love with. It broke for the hard decisions she had to make in order to fulfill the destiny she was born to fill...such a wide spectrum of emotions as I read this book.

I thought the fight was over, that wars waged would have fixed the problem, but no. Evolution is a tricky thing...each generation stronger than the one before. And with each sunrise, Dawn is forced to fight. Fight for her species, for her gender, for her race, her life. It's not until she follows her heart that she truly realizes what she was always fighting for...and when the light in her goes out, she figures out how to fulfill the prophecy and literally save the world.

"What happens to a woman when she kills the one who holds her heart?" "She saves mankind." "And destroys herself."

What a FABULOUS ending to an amazing, crazy post-apocalyptic world Godwin has created! I was so engrossed in this story, one I was reluctant to read, that when it was over, I wept. I wept! The kaleidoscope of emotions I experienced, the thoughts evoked even when I wasn't reading...the hangover! Oh, I can't stop thinking about all the what-ifs, but in the end, good wins. Good always wins. And I loved every twisted, scary, heart-pounding moment.

Wow, I am blown away! Dawn of Eve was spellbinding. I started this book and immediately fell into this exciting world of danger and enticement. This is one of those stories that you get so caught up in that you devour the pages all the while wishing the end would never come. Dawn of Eve is my favorite book in this unforgettable trilogy. This was the perfect ending to this compelling story. I seriously couldn't ask for more. Pam Godwin has created a truly unique world with fascinating characters that won't soon be forgotten. This author has a way of telling a story that makes you forget you're reading a book, she creates a full color movie in your mind's eye. This is a world that will stay with me. These are characters that now have a permanent place in my heart. I can't recommend this book highly enough. Read, feel, experience this captivating story!

"Our love is stubborn and messy." "It's trial and error." "And Forgiveness and acceptance." "Command and conquer." "Dusk and dawn."

Ever read a story where it has a certain trigger but the emotions of both characters are so blazing and heartfelt that you just can't stop reading? Well this one def was one of them and even though Salem did such a stupid thing I still couldn't help loving him because his love for Dawn was so obvious and real. Would have been a 4* def if not for the cheating.

5 Phenomenal Stars!

If I could give ten stars, I would, a five star rating doesn't deem appropriate for this masterpiece. A buffet of all things deliciously dark and naughty. I loved this book doesn't seem right. All the words and yet none of them seem good enough for this review.

This book. This series has pierced my dark heart and attached to my soul. All my buttons have been pushed. My heart has been chewed up and spat out, it's been shredded and then slowly pieced back together again. After reading the second book, there was a gaping hole in my chest. How will this unforgettable series end? How do I go on after reading these spectacular words. I formed a bond with these characters, Darwin the dog included. This new, devastating world has been vividly written, brought to life, how was I to let go? I'm afraid of giving spoilers, so I have to be vague in this review, it's hard because I have so much to say.

I had no idea how I would feel going into the third book, it was like taking a breath and not letting go. My chest squeezed with angst. Dawn of Eve, the cure for mankind. A huge burden for one girl. The world plagued with brain wash and fangs. How can one girl save the world from this menacing destruction? Each book contained eroticism, but I think this one almost topped the second book. Dawn of Eve is held captive with a man that has defied the laws of logic. Captured. But entrapped my his heat and humor.

"He looked at me as if he didn't just know who I was but knew my very soul and intended to shred it on a level I didn't even know existed."

The world is in the hands of one girl and she's falling desperately in love with a man that could possibly be her destruction. I held my kindle in a death grip. I wanted to jump up and run. Their connection was electricity, a fire that no amount of water could tame. The tension between these two took my air. The world fell away. A deliciously dangerous connection.

"Behold the incarnation of danger in all its infernal glory, a predator on the cusp of breaking his tenuous leash, his focus centered on his fluttery-hearted prey."

I'll just keep going if I don't stop myself. This series couldn't have ended any better. The last 15% squeezed my chest. I was angry, sad, hurt, I had already cried for different reasons, but I didn't think I was ready for what was going to happen. A twisted, epic end. The road was filled with heart-breaking moments. Dark humor. A soul-crushing, spiritual journey. Every emotion was brought out by this book/series. There's not enough words to express my love. These characters will live on in my heart.

"Love isn't just vital. It's what vital means."

Who would have thought that I would ever love a dystopian erotic dark paranormal story? I for sure did not think that I would love the Trilogy of Eve as much as I did but Pam Godwin is an evil genius I tell you. She has this gift and ability to transport readers in a whole new world where you are bombarded with so much action, chaos, power, and struggle in a post- apocalyptic setting.

I cried, laughed and had my heart tugged on many different emotional aspects. Pam Godwin created a story that had characters that consumed you and let me just say that I loved Dawn as traces of Eve can be felt in her. Since this book can't be read as a standalone, I don't want to spoil the story since this series is utterly addicting as Dawn races to save mankind.

Needless to say, this trilogy is unforgettable as it was like watching a movie play right before your eyes. Godwin's words are like magic. As a reader you can't help but be amazed and be in awe of her writing, characters and what awaits for Dawn. All there is left to say, this trilogy is the best dystonian book that I have read so far.

Action! Adventure! Dystopia at it's best! Love! Drama! And even angst! This series has it all.

I met Pam Godwin during the creation of Dead of Eve and have followed this story through the entire trilogy. I absolutely love this series and for those who want to read something out of the box, which is very much within the box too, this is your read. Dawn of Eve is the final book in the Eve trilogy. I never thought I would recover from the ending of book two, but I didn't have to worry about figuring that out. Pam drops you right back into the action, pulse pounding, heart thumping, and even breaking from the very first page.

Dawn has been raised by her three fathers. She's a firecracker, which should be expected from the child prophesized to save the world. Survival skills from her father Jesse. An analytic mind from Michio's scientific knowledge. A heart of gold from the biblical teaching of her father Roark. Each of these traits are bound together by her mother's bravery and legacy.

I had the privilege of critiquing this novel, and chapter by chapter, Pam sliced, shredded, and knitted my heart together. Over and over again, and I loved every agonizing and brilliant tortuous step. I loved Salem. I hated him. I despised everything about him. I wrote to Pam concerned about how Salem could ever be redeemed in my eyes. And then, something amazing happened. I fell in love with Salem and his dedication to Dawn all over again. Brilliant I say!

This book will hook you. It will grab a hold of you and stay with you forever. I can't recommend this trilogy enough.

Dawn of Eve by Pam Godwin

Dawn & Salem

WHAT A PERFECT ENDING

5 Stars

I have been following this trilogy since 2012. I have to admit that I was skeptical at first because I never read any books in this genre... but jaysus croist this trilogy is fanfuckingtastic. Those peeps out there that balk at dystopian or post- apocalyptic stuff, open your eyes... this isn't all about fantasy, weird shit, or even scary stuff. It's about love, family, and doing what's right for humanity. The entire trilogy as a whole is over 1500+ pages long and well worth it's weight in gold! This trilogy of heros, heroines, death, and redemption will keep you on the edge of your seat for more hours than you can count. You won't be disappointed with any of it... well, there will be a few parts that'll rip your still beating heart outta your chest, but other than that...

Dawn is the daughter of Eve from the beginning of this trilogy and she's nothing short of magnificent. She's a fighter just like her mother, but seeking her purpose in this whole conundrum. She's fearless, she's smart, and she's loved and hated by many. She's persistent in her pursuit to find out what the prophecy really means for her. What is it that makes her special? What was she born to do? Through her journeys, experiences, and defeats she'll take you on one wild and even comical ride.

Salem is anything but dull. This man or whatever he is, well, he's just so damn intriguing to say the least. I knew right away that things aren't always what they seem with him. I knew he had an ulterior motive where Dawn was concerned, but I never imagined it went as deep as it actually did. He's cunning, he's wild, and he's all in when it comes to Dawn. His reasons are questionable at times and drove me a little batshit crazy, but I still love that bastard!

The supporting character cast isn't too large, but important none-the-less. Dawn's three daddios are Jesse, Michio, and Roarke auoy! These men have been my salvation through this entire trilogy. They are fierce in their protection of Dawn, they love with everything they have, and they're some of the best characters you'll ever read. Erebus is Salem's right hand man and bares mentioning in my book since he was loyal, protective, and strangely compassionate, he left a mark on my heart. This story wouldn't be what it is without these peeps.

This story is witty, tragic, and unexpected. My face lit up with the biggest damn smile when I finished it. Every word I read was so gripping and so powerful that I could not put it down. The tension is immediate and stays on course through to the end. This world Pam created and embellished upon is one of turmoil, dismay, and uncertainty and I wouldn't have it any other way. This trilogy broke new ground combining so many genres... romance, paranormal, suspense, sci-fi, dystopian, and post-apocalyptic. There's something for everybody here... what are you waiting for, dive into Dead of Eve NOW and don't look back or come up for air till you've finished it all. I loved it and I love Pam and her beautiful fucked up words! Thank God she stays up all hours of the day and night drinking java and loading up on nicotine to bring us the most captivating stories. Pam Godwin = Perfection!

5 Enchantment. Beauty. In its rawest, purest, most dangerous form. stars

Twenty-Two Years Post-Apocalypse and Dawn, the Daughter of Eve, born of a prophecy to save humanity, is the leader of the Resistance. Raised a soldier, under the over protectiveness and love of her Guardian Fathers, she has known nothing but violence. But the truth of her reality brings her no closer to fulfilling the prophecy... after all what is a human nineteen year old girl capable of, especially against an army of hybrids set out to kill her.

A careless mistake leaves her trapped in a cell with Salem, "A dark angel, made of brawn and nocturnal beauty." Her reaction to him is almost instantaneous, it isn't because he is the most handsomest deadliest man she's come across, it's because he looks at her as if he would starve without her. Not giving two fucks who her fathers are.

"Has your cunt ever been this close to surrender?" He ground his cock against me.

"This isn't surrender, baby...It's resistance."

"Ah, yes. Dawn of Eve, leader of the Resistance...You've been resisting your entire life.

Waiting. For me."

Time is lost, and nothing else matters but walls that are crumbling down. Who would have ever thought that the man who would soon master her body be the same man who would turn her world upside down.

*"Your eyes are addictive." His voice whispered through me, licking my nerve endings.
"Sometimes I see sparks of emerald, but the gold dominates, the color so blinding and painful it's like staring into a lost sunrise after twenty years of darkness."*

Trapped in an eternal darkness, Salem is just as lost as he is found. Strong emotions threaten to take over, bewitching him and his plan, but for him, Dawn is worth every risk and every breath. The secrets he holds have the power to tear them apart...but damn him if he would ever let her go.

Dawn of Eve was the icing to the cake, a dark gritty erotic tale to wrap up an amazing series. After Blood of Eve I had no clue where Dawn's story would lead and like Dawn to her mother, this book had some BIG shoes to fill. But leave it to the wicked mind of Pam Godwin to deliver something so profound that it burrows deep in your mind and plays with every emotion you have. I laughed, loved and cried, felt my heart soar, and cradled it when it broke.

Dawn and Salem were two strong leads, that stood their ground and made their mark. To say I loved their story and the conclusion to the trilogy wouldn't really do it any justice, honestly there are no words to describe what I feel. It is so much and everything in between. It's something I hope you get too experience for your self. I can't say much without giving anything away, but this is one for my unforgettables shelf. Such a bittersweet ending, a series I will truly miss. Highly recommended for sure!

Beverly says

This series by Pam Godwin has absolutely blown me away. I am a romance reader so I wasn't sure these books would be for me, but I had read and loved all of Pam's other books so I decided to give this series a try when she recommended I try it. What happened, well I became addicted. I couldn't wait for the next installment and with every book fell more in love with this series. For all my romance reading friends, it has TONS of romance and LOTS of heat!

This final installment was just as phenomenal as the rest of the series and even made me sad to see the series ending. I have fallen so hard in love with these guys and wasn't ready to let this post-apocalyptic world go. This series has to be read in order or you will miss so much, so I will try to leave out any huge spoilers here.

The story picks up 21 years later and Eve's daughter Dawn is 20 years old. For years she has been leading the resistance and fighting for mankind. When we catch up with her again she is in the midst of saving women in Canada. She quickly realizes a trap and executes a plan to save the women, the key to mankind's survival. However, in doing so she ends up trapped herself. That's where she meets Salem.

Salem isn't like anyone Dawn has ever met and she has an intense attraction to him. The story really takes off from there and like the rest of the series takes you on a sexy, emotional, suspenseful ride where you can't wait to see what's coming next.

This series has been amazing. I have laughed, cried and been blown away with how sexy this series is. I never expected to love this series so much, because it is so out of my realm of what I typically read, but it was everything I love about books. It's addicting, unpredictable, and made me feel so much. With every book, I have been so excited to see what would come next. Pam has blown me away with this series and I wish all my friends would dive in!

5+ "Epic Journey" Stars

This is one of the best series I've ever read. It's come full circle and made me a little weepy. Who knew a dystopian, paranormal, suspense, erotic, horror trilogy would leave me absolutely emotionally devastated in the best, most magical way?

Dawn of Eve is the third book in the Trilogy of Eve and the series must be read in order. I can't urge you enough to dive in. It's different and dark. But if you're looking for something beyond the usual fare or something that will burrow its way into your heart and give you characters to love forever, this series will do that and more.

With her mother's sacrifice at the end of book 2, Dawn is now carrying the mantle of saving the world. Yet she's just an ordinary human in an extraordinary situation. As she and her family set out to finally complete her mother's legacy, she's faced with a situation that could destroy all that they've struggled to achieve. Meeting her match sets off a series of choices that will change the world forever.

This book. This series. This author. I am officially obsessed. This story kept me up late into the night as I couldn't stop reading once I started. The world building is brilliant. The characters believable. The heat and desire between Dawn and her match sizzling. The sex scenes erotic as hell. And the love story made my heart literally beat out of my chest. This will be a series that I won't ever forget, will buy to sit on my shelf and one that I will reread again and again.
