Anita Powers says

Right from the start we are into the action that ended the last book and it is as exciting as before. I love how he kissed her to try and calm her down and how she called him a name right away for doing that. I like how everything got covered up and her friends were none the wiser. I hate that she is torn up about her putting her friends in danger but it is understandable. She wants so much of her life to be back to "normal" but she is seeing that no matter what it never will be. I like how Cora is now expected to make some of the decisions around his house, how she is to take on the "mistress responsibilities" I like how she is interested in learning more about his research and working in the lab, this is something she wants to try for herself. I really like Hattie, she seems fun and would be a good friend for Cora. I liked how we got to know more about Dorian in this book, how we got to see another side of him, a few things he used to do for fun. It was interesting reading about how Cora was being affected by being away from Dorian when she stayed at her dorm room at college instead of at the Mansion. I am afraid of what this so called "mono epidemic" is, and why they would need to test everyone, something isn't right about all of this and it worries me. I loved their Skype "session" and I think it is great how excited and helpful Jane is being with the wedding arrangements and I am so glad that Cora is not making a big deal about how large the wedding needs to be instead she is just going with it. I thought the scene with the crop was so hot and it allowed us to see a new side to both Cora and Dorian and it was great. I like how once again they are doing something Dorian used to love to do and she is spending time with his friends. What happens during this outing was a shocker and how Hattie reacts to what happened had my mouth dropping open to the floor, I could not believe it.

This book was my least favorite so far. Just seemed to drag on as Cora starts her classes and learns about what takes place with future cognates. Usually these are fast paced and I dont want to put it down but this one I was kind of bored at times. Until that is the end of it when I found myself very much surprised and upset..

Pretty much hell breaking loose and Cora and Dorian are in danger. I am still loving this series and just love this unique world and the steam between Cora and Dorian still there. This had some interesting kink added with a riding crop. Hmm...all Im gonna say lol.

This book is number 2 in the second series of novellas featuring Cora Shaw, the cognate (human consort) of agnate (vampire) Dorian Thorne. Wow! What a read! This 20 something, victim of leukemia (oh, BTW, I had not read any of the other books in the series, I was given this one in exchange for an honest review, so I went back and grabbed the FIRST book in the FIRST series to get some background) was given the option of dying with dignity in Hospice, or going to see one Dorian Thorne. With nothing to lose, she chose door #2. Fast forward a few months, her treatment for cancer, was supposed to have been an injection of long chain molecules, a hemotoxin, which would create a metabolic changes, reverting the cancer cells to a healthy state. It instead was Dorian's vampiric bite, a cure, but also an irreversible bond. We are now nearly to the eve of their wedding, this, Cora's second Bond to Dorian. They have fallen in love, Cora is nearly finished with college, has started working at Dorian's Lab, where they are perfecting the injection for humanitarian purposes and she is beginning to take on responsibilities of the chatelaine of the manor, helping Dorian host various soirées.

Then suddenly, during an outing, something goes horribly wrong!

Cora, who did not want to die, has gotten much more life than she bargained for! Murder! Mayhem!

Intrigue! Espionage!

I cannot wait to read the next installment - AND catch up on what I missed between the first book in the first series and this one!

VM Black is an author to follow.

This is book two in the Cora's Bond series. If you have not read the previous books, I really suggest that you do. You will easily get lost with all of the characters and what is going on if you don't read them, but it will definitely be worth your time.

The bond between Cora and Dorian intensifies and the time part is a struggle for them both. But Cora insists on completing her final semester as a "normal" college student. But heck she is not normal and she should accept that. Dorian grants Cora her wish to do so rather than controlling her mind and actions through their bond. And Dorian of course has his research to keep him occupied.

One thing that I have really enjoyed seeing is the change in Dorian over the last books. Cora (while she can be a brat at times), really is starting to bring out the more human side of Dorian. Those little touches makes their relationship endearing.

I always enjoy reading Ms. Black's books. They really are entertaining and are good at keeping you engaged. The only problem is the cliffhangers. I don't mind serials at all. But this one just totally left me hanging and I am in a tizzy just waiting to see what is going to happen in the next book.

The ending! Holy. Freaking. Cow.

I loved the CORA'S CHOICE series, and now the series continues with CORA'S BOND...and it's just as good. If you love vampire romance, you have to give these series a try.

#2 has a nice steady pace, and then BAM you're hit with the ending. I'm almost speechless. I totally didn't see it coming. I can't wait for #3 to come out, just to see what happens.

What will Dorian do? Will Cora stay in school?

V.M. Black continues to wow me with her vampire romance series. Seriously, she's good.

This is the second of Cora's Bond series. First, I have not read the other books in this series or the previous series. You kinda need to read the previous books to follow the literary terminology and understand about the research they are working on, but Ms. V.M. Black gives you enough information that I was not totally lost. This book kept me entangled to the end. Cora Shaw is bonded to the husky wealthy vampire Dorian Thorne. Cora has to adjust being away from her fiancé while she finishes her last semester in collage. The bond between them is very strong that they almost feel pain or at least very discomfort to be without each other. Cora has to step in the role of mistress of the manor. Dorian enjoys watching her. This story ends with a cliffhanger. I really enjoy this novella. I can't wait to read the other books in this series and the preceding books. I received this complimentary book by the author in exchange for an honest review.

Another amazing installment

Just like the rest of the books in this series, I couldn't put it down. Excellent characters, story, and romance!! 50 shades doesn't have anything on this series. Love, love, love it!!

Lanie (Lanies Book Thoughts) says

I haven't read any of the previous Cora's Bond books or the entwining series, but I could still follow the plotline pretty easily. These are novellas, so it's gonna leave you wanting more.

Some background: Cora was sick with cancer and slowly fading away, that is before vampire Dorian comes into her life. Dorian slowly injects her with his blood over a couple months span which creates a bond between Cora and Dorian. They fall in love and are set to marry.

In this part of the story, Cora is just starting to understand the changes in her new life. She's slowly warming up to the idea that she's not gonna have a normal life. She now has enemies and a very powerful fiance to protect her.

Overall, it's an interesting story. I'd recommend reading the other books first so you have a more complete story as you read.

I was given an eArc of this book from the author in exchange for an honest review.

Ann says

This is book 2 of this series and although other reviewers have insisted that you have to read all the books to not be lost I did not feel truly lost in this series without reading book #1. There were references to the previous book, but even without reading it I was able to get enough understanding to not feel like I had to go and read the first book to enjoy this one. I may go back and read the first one sometime in the future (since I did enjoy this book, and enjoy this author's style), but do not feel like it will be absolutely necessary. This is the second book that I have read by V.M. Black and I will most certainly be going back for more of her books. As a general rule I enjoy shifter books more than vampires, but this book had me from start to finish and I read it in one sitting...could not put it down....and am really glad it was not a 400+ page book (I would have stayed up and kept reading) I was that caught up in the story. Overall I would say that V.M. Black is an author to watch and I will be picking up more books by her...she has been added to my most watched author list.

Lisa Lopez says

I don't as a rule read serials. V.M. Black changed my mind. I hate cliffhangers, but V.M. Black writes them so well, that they do not make you want to throw you kindle, but re read the story to see if you missed something because you were so engrossed in the story. Time without end is the second installment of Cora's Bond, the continuation of the story of Dorian and Cora from Cora's Choice.

In this installment Cora and Dorian are working on their bond/relationship. We were left at book 1 with them being chased by a Djinn and all the rules of the agnate and congate world being broken as cognates are sacred and never harmed. Dorian's character is growing as he is becoming in a word more animated after centuries of not having a cognate that helps him to be more human. We also find out he has a daughter from a previous cognate and delve a bit more into his past. Cora is growing by leaps and bounds as she is tossed into a world and relationship that is overwhelming, overpowering, and tempestuous.

This serial is one of the best stories I have read. The world itself is fresh and the characters and the interaction overwhelming. The cliffhanger in this one is well perfect. The author has found a flow for a story and followed it so that it is what if this were real would have happened and also makes me very impatient for the next book.

Susan says

I love this series and have read every book in the series. This series is just keeps getting better and better. Cora is juggling school, her friends, planning a wedding, trying to understand the way that Dorian's society works and accepting her love for Dorian and that he is not trying to control her. She is still living in her apartment with her friends and suffering through not seeing Dorian every day. I keep waiting for her to run into her ex who had been controlled by Cosmo but that hasn't' happened so far. She has asked her friends to be bridesmaids and they are planning a day to pick out dresses, even though her best friend is still not 100% okay with their engagement. The danger is escalating all around them and comes to a head at an outing with Dorian's friends that had my jaw dropping in shock.

I am really enjoying this series, the only thing about this book and the slight theme running through-out the series that I am not enjoying is the pain thread. There is a scene in this book that really bothered. I really hope it doesn't go any further with this. I couldn't put this book down once I started it and I highly recommend this book, the whole series. I do find the books pretty short for the cost of them. I hope they start getting longer.

JoRead says

Continues the story between Dorian (a vampire or agnate as they call themselves) and Cora, his mate (or cognate). She's becoming more and more accustomed to her new role but still can't deal with the separation of her two worlds. That sounded a little too whiny at the start of this story but then I had to do like Dorian and understand that she's still relatively too young. Dorian on the other hand sounded at times like a dusty old soul with nothing to live for. "Dorian, shake it up buddy. You have the love of your life with you. Enjoy it while you can." Now, not complaining about the scorching, steamy encounters, because they were something else, however they took a little turn to the dark and erotic, and took a lot of time for so short a story. I wish there was more romance, more tender words, and more story about the whole Agnate universe. But I'll bear in mind this is a serial and perhaps we're just getting there ;) so I'll still continue reading the stories not only because of that but because yet again that cliffhanger left me biting my nails and I just have to know what will happen next!!

I could not finish the series. I really liked Dorian Thome but Cora Shaw was a whiner in each novella. I say novella because each is around 200 pages. At $2.99 ea. this gets pricey for me. I bought the first 5 as an Amazon bundle. I bought the second bundle hoping the stories would pickup. Well I my opinion UGH..... so around $29 later, need I say more. I'll never, ever buy a series this way.

Now you may love Cora's insecurities throughout the series. If you read the first you'll know what the rest are like
