Alibi in April Camilla Chafer

From USA Today bestselling author Camilla Chafer comes a brand new mystery.

Welcome to Calendar where life is sweet, but death is murder.

Vanessa Wright never planned to return home to Calendar. But her relationship ends, her job disappears, and she suddenly inherits a former inn from her great aunt, so she concludes it's finally time for her to return to the sleepy mountain town. Although it was where she grew up, she has no plans to stay there for long. All she must do to get her life back on track is fix up the inn and find a buyer.

The Blackberry Inn has lost some of its charm and good looks over the years, going from gorgeous, Victorian-era splendor to being relegated to a dilapidated fixer-upper. It's going to be one helluva a job to restore it to its former glory. Fortunately, Vanessa isn't afraid of a little hard work. She boldly confronts her first night alone in the big, old house with determination and courage, until she finds a dead body on the veranda. The indications are that a man might have broken in. Who could the failed burglar be? What could he possibly want from the old inn? When successive attempts are made to scare Vanessa out of the house, she has to find out what the victim's mystery accomplice is seeking and quickly, or she could become his next victim.

With the help of her contractor and old friend, Nate Minoso, Vanessa tries to solve the dead man's murder. She also has to find out what he intended to steal. More importantly, she must make a big decision in her life: is it finally time to put down roots? Or should she turn her back on her hometown, and Nate, forever?

Twelve cozy mysteries... one deadly town!

Linda says

I really enjoyed this book! Camilla Chafer 's writing style is so enjoyable. I hope to see more of these characters in the future. Recommended to anyone who enjoys cozy mysteries.

Chafer is a very talented writer. It was a good mystery, but for some reason, I didn't make a connection with the heroine, and the hero was also kind of blah. I haven't read the others books in the series yet. Maybe they will be better...

Trash or treasure?

Loved it. After losing her boyfriend, apartment and job she comes back to clean up and sell the Inn that was left to her. Only to find it in a state of disrepair and untouched since her aunt went into a nursing home. A night's sleep is what she needs before she can really start to get to grips with the place. All that is put on hold as she discovers a dead man sitting in an armchair on the veranda. Who is he? Did he break in while she slept? With the help of some girlfriends and the cute construction owner (the boy she left behind when she left) they start to work on the Inn and investigate. Will they find out what the dead man was looking for and his killer? A great plot but unfortunately I guessed the killer before the end. Although the characters made up for that.

UNEXPECTED

Great characters with a totally unexpected villain. Although characters from previous book make cameo appearances each book in this series is a stand alone.

I liked this one the best of the Calendar Mysteries so far. Maybe it was because there was an old house being fixed up, or maybe it was because I felt the heroine acted more realistically in investigating the murder. Though her reasoning for doing so was silly when there was clearly an obvious reason, better selling price/quicker sale if there wasn't an unsolved murder hanging over the property.

This series just keeps getting better and better! I highly recommend this book!

Waiting patiently for May...

Well, she did it again. April was a good one. Murder & mini Mayhem.

Once more we are given a clean murder mystery with a little romance thrown in for good measure. These stories get the point across without beating you over the head with it. No gory murder descriptions, just a dead body with ? (hole in the head, knife in the chest, etc) plain and simple. I don't need to know how the blood looks pooling on the floor, or how the corpse is bloated (ick). It's enough for me to know they are DEAD. The story I want to read is how they got that way, by who, and why. When an author can grab (and keep) your attention without having to resort to grizzly murder descriptions or graphic sex scenes, THAT is a good author.

Camilla-Hurry up on writing May. We're Waiting...

Another Calendar mystery and a great read.

Vanessa inherits a house from her great aunt in the town she used to live in. It used to be an inn and Vanessa helped out during holidays.

She intends to do it up and sell it, returning to the city. Instead her plans go awry as she finds a dead body on her porch.

Still determined to do up the house she finds her mindset changing and instead of thinking of selling straight away, she thinks about staying.

With the help of an old friend, Nate Minosa (who has been in previous Calendar books) and some old school friends she decides to find out who is behind the killing. Can she find out? Read it and then you'll know.

This book also features kittens :-)

As always Camilla write well, and, even though I guessed who did it, I did not know why which is why this book is good.

Great book, can't wait for the next one.

Another great month in Calendar!

This series just keeps getting better each month! Alibi in April is my favorite so far! A mystery and a little love all rolled into one book. I'm bummed I have to wait until next year to read the next one!

I would love to see this book become a series of it's own! I think this may be my favorite of the Calendar Mysteries but I have loved them all. Great characters, interesting relationships and murder make for one wonderful read.
