--- Faking their own death was the easy part. ---

After months of recovering from his injuries, Seth struggles with who he has become. Afloat in a reality he never planned, he tries to find the lost pieces of himself again. Find the purpose, motivation, and strength to get back into shape. He is sick and tired of being a burden for Domenico, who seems to have it all together. When Domenico's jealousy pushes them into the spotlight of a biker gang with connections to their former mafia family, Seth decides to step up, and make his own decisions, no matter what risks they might entail.

Domenico Acerbi can't trust anyone. Nightmares of Seth's torture are still haunting his dreams, and if he and Seth are to leave the country quietly and disappear off the mafia's radar, he needs to stay in charge and keep everyone under control. What he doesn't need is Seth giving him attitude, keeping secrets, and distancing himself for no reason. And as if Domenico didn't have enough on his plate already, Seth forces him to help some hooker. Being stuck in the swamp with a kid hunted by a bunch of bikers is not Domenico's idea of laying low.

POSSIBLE SPOILERS:

Themes: mafia, homophobia, assassin, organized crime, outlaw bikers, human trafficking, runaway, trust issues

Genre: Dark, twisted erotic romance / crime thriller

Erotic content: Explicit gay sex

Length: ~117,000 words

WARNING: Adult content. If you are easily offended, this book is not for you.
'Guns n' Boys' is a gritty story of extreme violence, offensive language, abuse, and morally ambiguous protagonists. Behind the morbid facade, there is a splash of inappropriate dark humor, and a love story that will crawl under your skin.

From Reader Review Guns n' Boys: Swamp Blood for online ebook

~Mindy Lynn~ says

Dom ...

Gosh I love this character. His temper, arrogance, ego, jealousy, heart, and last but not least, his possessiveness of Seth. I love it all. Especially his love for Seth. But in this story we get to see a new side of Dom when Mark is brought into the story. He shows him some tough love but we also get to see the softer side we only usually get to see of Dom when he's with Seth. It just made me love this guy more.

Seth ...

This man is huge and yet such a teddy bear. I seriously want to dive into the story and cuddle with him. I LOVE this guy! He has such a big heart and I find his insecurities endearing to the point I just wanna hug him. He's such a sweetheart. I love all the crazy things he comes up with. Especially with the gator. Although that really doesn't work out the way he had anticipated. Yet, it was still quite entertaining and kind of hilarious even though the unfortunate ending of it. He is always jumping to conclusions and going straight in without really thinking things through. You can't help but love the guy.

These two characters fight hard but love even harder. Their love is

Seth isn't doing so well after the incident with Vincente and has developed quite a bit of insecurities. He's not in the shape he once was and has put on some weight. He's having trouble with the nerve damage in his hand making it hard for him to keep a grip on things. With the physical scars and the weight gain, Seth's not feeling that attractive and it's causing him to pull away from Dom.

Dom is having his own issues with the aftermath. He's disappointed in himself for not being able to protect Seth and is having horrible nightmares. So dealing with that and with Seth constantly shying away from any form of intimacy frustrates Dom. With help he comes to the conclusion that Seth may be cheating on him. So of course when he sees Seth chatting with an attractive guy it leaves Dom to do the only thing reasonable in his mind; flip his shit with jealousy that leads them into the chaos that unfolds.

There's loads of action. It's expected with these boys. Trouble finds them wherever they go and the Swamp was no different. From wrestling with gators to having jealous tantrums with bikers, there is nothing that surprises me with these boys anymore. They are so much fun to read about.

I must say I did not like Dana very much.

The way she treated Mark annoyed me so bad. She played on the poor kids insecurities and it really pissed me off. The kid had it rough as it was he didn't need this bitch making it worse.

Oh, Mark... This boy broke my heart. I enjoyed his character. He was a nice addition to the story. I really loved reading how Dom interacted with him and how much that interaction changed as the story progressed. Seth was of course a softie and just wanted to save Mark and take care of him. It really started feeling like Mark was there adopted child at the end. I can't wait to see how it goes with these three as the series goes.

I end up loving these guys more and more with every new book. I can't wait for the next one.

4.75 stars

How much do I love Seth and Dom?

They are in my top favorite couples. Not of the light and fluffy variety, but of the fucked-up-but I-still-love-them kind. Similar to Ben and Nik, for those who have read More Heat Than the Sun series.

Swamp Blood picks up 3 months after the previous book left off. Seth and Dom are not connecting well since Seth's torture at the hands of Vincente. Seth is all kinds of self-conscious about the scars left behind on his torso and the extra pounds he's put on while having to heal. Dom is having nightmares about witnessing Seth's torture and is jumping to all kinds of conclusions about why Seth won't let them be even remotely intimate.

This could be solved with just a smidge of honest communication. But that's hit or miss for my beloved Dom and Seth, and it's miss in this case. That is until.....some outdoor role-playing. Yowza!

Merikan introduces us to the Louisiana chapter MC for One Step Too Close - Coffin Nails MC Louisiana. Ryder and Jed are gonna be interesting! That kind of internal homophobia is gonna explode on page.

As for the other two additions to Dom and Seth's family in this book:

Mark is a 16 y/o runaway who latches on to Dom and Seth. He is clueless and adorable and I loved him to pieces! He's been through more than any 16 year old should have to, and he's still standing and still naïve enough to believe in the good in people. All of his innocence hasn't been stripped from him. But he's grown enough through his tribulations to know that life sucks. He knows that Dom and Seth aren't the "good" guys, but they are anyway. I am so glad he was added to their family!

Dana - the little "apprentice" whom Dom is training. This bitch needs to get what's coming to her. Yeah - she's reliable when shit goes down, but I don't trust her at all. She's a bitch to Mark, she's a bitch to everyone but Dom. And mark my words, she will turn on them in a future book. And unfortunately, I now have to look forward to seeing her in One Step Too Close - Coffin Nails MC Louisiana as well. Sigh - I could've done without that.

Brilliant edition to the series. Merikan can't go wrong when they write Seth and Dom for me!

It's official, I'm addicted to these men...

I've given them a theme song. Seriously I don't do this very often but every time I read one of these books I end up at some point listening to this song so I've decided it's Dom & Seth's song. It's 'We've Got A Big Mess On Our Hands' by The Academy Is (blame my child he's my music muse). Anyways, here's the link if you're not familiar with the group or the song and maybe a bit curious...

We've Got A Big Mess On Our Hands

Things started out harmless enough. Dom and Seth are just trying to lie low, stay under everyone's radar long enough for Seth to heal and with any luck and get their relationship back on track if Dom has anything to do with it. Seems simple right? Nope, for Seth and Dom life never ends up being simple. Their train left the tracks to Simpletown right about the time they responded to a cry for help from the bathroom of an abandon rest stop only to discover the same young man they'd encountered earlier at the local WalMart and it's down hill from there. The next thing any of them know they're pulling up stakes and looking for another hideout only now not only do they have Dana in tow, they've got Mark they same young man that they rescued from the rest stop, the same young man who doesn't seem to be able to recognize the truth even if it jumps up and smacks him in the face. Add to this the fact that said young man and Dom's over the top jealousy have put them on the radar of the Coffin Nails Motorcycle Club. Throw in some illegal activity that even a club like the Coffin Nails frowns upon and the next thing you know Seth and Dom have got a big, big mess on their hands. One that takes them out from under the radar and plants them firmly in everybody's cross hairs.

I was drawn into this story right from the start and each page pulled me a little further into the swamp along with our MCs. But it was somewhere towards the 3/4 mark when I had my 'holy hell' sh*t just got real moment and couldn't stop reading. So while the first 3/4 of this book was probably 4 solid stars for me, the last 1/4 was 5 action packed give me freakin' more stars. So at the end of it all 4.5 stars rounded up here on GR because still no 1/2 stars and honestly that cover deserves at least a 1/2 star of it's own.

I loved that Dom and Seth finally started talking and both realized that they really didn't know what was going on in the other one's head. This went a long way towards helping them begin to resolve their problem and the personal growth that I saw from both of them was something that I really needed to keep me wanting more. At the end of it all our boys are on the road again and I just know where ever they end up I want to be there to see what happens next but in the meantime maybe I can find out what's up back at the Coffin Nails clubhouse.

RE READ JUNE 2016

Well,I've read these books virtually back to back and I've been a very happy girl.These men are just the best together.Dirty,sexy,sweet and perfect together.

In this book they are supposed to be dead so have to stay under the radar...

Seth is suffering mentally and physically after the events from the last book.He feels insecure and unattractive after the injuries he sustained and as a result the physical side of his relationship with Dom is suffering.Dom tries so hard to be patient but just wants the old Seth back.

As usual,with these two,trying to stay out of trouble is impossible.

Dana(so far don't like her) is still present and being trained by Dom.Something Seth is not happy with as Dom spends so much time with her.

A great new character is introduced as well.

Mark is a 16 year old runaway,has no self worth,feels totally unloved and whores himself out to men

They first meet Mark when he finds himself in a comprising position gone out of control with a sexy biker,Jed who is a member of the Coffin Nails MC.

Having read the Sex and Mayhem series by these Authors I was so loving their involvement in this book. I mean what's hotter than M/M biker action....

The encounter with Jed sees Dom and Seth getting involved in the MC world and things take on a violent turn.

Dom is just as bossy and sexy and dominant and gorgeous and insanely jealous of Seth.

Seth is just adorable and cute and hot and doesn't think about his actions where Dom is concerned.

These two bicker and fight something fierce but my God, the make up sessions are so worth it!!

I've got a few favourite M/M couples but I think these two are definitely number one.
I just bloody love this series and can't wait for the next part of their journey!!!!

Hmmmm...

This seems to be a typical case of all-of-my-friends-loved-it-but-me. Maybe I should add that I'm not really into books about biker gangs and this story was apparently some kind of crossover with another series by the authors (Sex & Mayhem) about the Coffin Nails MC.

I don't know how much it was the book or how much it was me being sick that I did not really enjoy this story. I loved Guns n' Boys: Homicidal Instinct and I even thought that this series was getting better and better, but not for me I'm afraid. I debated with myself if I should write a review at all, because I want to be fair, but decided to steer a middle course and give it 3 stars to compensate any injustice.

The book began just great. Both, Dom and Seth, have to deal with the aftereffects of what was done to Seth by his own brother at the end of the previous book and I so felt for them.

I really get that it is hard for both of them to cope with the events...

... but what followed was somewhat unnecessary drama. The ensuing ups and downs in their relationship, their fights and especially Dom's behavior felt a bit staged. A little less and I could have believed it. As it was, though, it was tiring and eye-roll inducing. For me, it felt like being back at square one just the other way round, because this time it was Dom whom I did not particularly like in this book and he was always my favorite so far.

He behaved like a self-righteous prick sometimes and was far too arrogant for my liking. Those who followed my reviews for the other books in this series know that it is quite a surprise - yes, for me too! - that I loved Seth more this time.

I really enjoyed his character development, with him finally standing up for himself and trying not to depend too much on Dom, it was more than I could have asked for.

Who I did not care much for was Mark, the little hooker Dom and Seth took in after saving him from trouble with a biker. With him behaving like a brat most of the time, I did not even feel sorry for him, at least not until the end, anyway. And don't get me started on Dana. I somehow I don't trust her, being sent after Dom and Seth by the mafia in the last book and jumping ship just like that. Something about her just feels off.

Enough with the rant, though. The sex was hot - just to give you a hint: role-play!!! - and the ending was as thrilling as in the other books, albeit a bit OTT.

I better stop now, because it is hard to think with a stuffed-up nose and a head that feels like being filled with cotton. ;-) I have read the first four books in this series, including the short story, almost back to back and maybe it is time for me to take a longer break from it, to read something in between, so I can enjoy the next book again.

Shin Mon Thway says

Why is Kat and Agnes being so cruel to my Seth? ? I'm hating them a bit in this novel. After being severely tortured and mutilated by his own brother, Seth is now suffering physically and mentally. ? He doesn't wanna weigh Dom down with his issues but where would he go if not by Dom's side? Meanwhile, Dom is dying to be close to Seth again physically and emotionally. These days, Seth seems to push him away further and further and Dom is afraid, Seth is going to lose his way back to Domenico. When Dom went caveman berserk over jealousy towards Seth's gym instructor, things went hell pretty quickly. ? Now, not only the whole mafia is after them, a very influential and outlaw motorcycle club members are after them for a payback for blood too. Since there's no way out and simply because there's no choice, Dom agreed to do this MC's bidding to find a lost sibling of one of their members. Meanwhile, true to his nature, Seth has picked up a stray again. ? But the problem is this time, it's not a hen or a cat, it's a teenage boy. No matter how Seth wants to keep Mark, their life is simply not suitable for adolescent boy. ? Meanwhile, Domenico realizes the case after a lost woman is much more than what it seems. Will Dom and Seth be able to over come all things against odds to find a place called home?

Very very very angsty. ? I ugly cried several times. ? This series is legendary for a reason. The emotions are so raw, so pure and so realistic that you are Dom and you are Seth at the same time while reading this book. ? It's very difficult to make the readers not only to sympathize but to empathize with the characters but K.A. Merikan delivered it beautifully in this story. Seth and Dom is still and will always be going strong. I loved how their love can even become more and more with each and every story. And I love the introduction of Mark in this story. I can't wait to read more about the adventures of my favorite couple. And I can't wait to see this two finally tying the knot. ?

Jewel says

Wow, what to say about this book! This series just gets better and better and better, with every installment. And now I must wait for book 4!

Swamp Blood takes our boys down south where they are staying under the radar while Seth recovers from his ordeal at the end of Homicidal Instinct. And I felt so bad for Seth at the beginning of this one. He's been through so much and Seth was not cut out for the kind of life he was thrown into. Seth is like a puppy - he's happy-go-lucky, and insanely loyal to Dom and he just wants to live his life without people trying to kill him all the time. It really shouldn't be too much to ask. Well... At least he has Dom. But he starts this book like a sad puppy. His bounce was all gone and he was feeling insecure about his body and his life.

And Dom just wants Seth to be ok. And he wants a lot of sex, which Seth isn't into because of his insecurities. I was sad. But Dom loves Seth more than life and even though he misses his Seth terribly, he gives him the space he needs to recover and continues to take care of his man. It's weird to see someone like Dom be so nurturing, but it was sweet.

Never fear, though, we do get our Seth back. And like the Seth of old, he doesn't always think things through and he has a tendency to do some really stupid shit. And, again, thank goodness he has Dom.

And in Swamp Blood, they pick up a couple more people, too. Dana, the assassin from the last book, is training under Dom. I didn't like her and didn't trust her. At all. She's a snake. Cold blooded and calculating. And they also pick up a 16 year old boy named Mark, who is trying to make his way to some guy named Fred, whom he met over the internet (yeah, that'll go well) and Dom and Seth rescue him from a bad situation.

All I've got to say about this book is that these guys don't lay low very well. And thank goodness. Could you imagine 300 pages of nothing happening because they were hanging out on hammocks reading books, watching the world go by? That's my dream life, but it would make for a boring book. Nope, Dom, Seth and company, can't just sit around.

And K.A. Merikan knows just how to pull me into a story and make me love it even when the morality of the main characters is questionable at best. I don't know how they do it, but damn. I love this series so much, I could just keep gushing! I hope we don't have a huge wait for the next book.

Denise H. says

***** OMG !! These authors are so wonderful ! *****

We get another amazing, gritty, story of Seth and Dom, and the uniting of the story with the characters from the Coffin Nails series, in Louisiana, which I also love !

Dom

Dom and Seth are hiding out after the torture and rescue. Poor, beautiful, Seth, has some terrible wounds to deal with, mentally and physically.

Seth

They both let their hair grow and Seth has a beard to cover a scar.

He and his sexy alpha man, Domenico, are fighting and not communicating very well. Together they save a kid from the wrath of a biker, and it ignites tensions with the guys and the club. Later on, the men come in handy when helping the Coffin Nails find a human trafficking group. There is lots of hot sexiness, rough and crude language, and action packed violent episodes, too.

The kid, Mark, has nowhere to go, and stays with the guys for protection. Mark is 16, sassy, snarky, and full of stupidity, but Dom must see something in him, and wants to help him, but does continue to scare him, testing him. Dana is still there as bodyguard and she is so cruel to Mark, I wanted to slap her. Dom finally sees it, and she's punished in his way. Tremendous writing, magnificent characters, and a full bodied story, all things that make this a fabulous read.

Each book can stand alone, but are SO MUCH MORE fulfilling if you've read the previous stories. I'm looking forward to more from these guys, and they are headed south, with Mark in tow. You'll find out why when you read the story.

It's such an awesome story, I LOVED IT !

Very highly recommended ! ENJOY !

5 HUGE STARS

This story really got under my skin!!! I LOVED the fourth book in the most amazing series ever!

I ADORE Guns n' Boys. I've become addicted to K.A. Merikan's writing. It's like a drug and I must keep on reading or I might die.

DOM

Seth

Even if I felt the need to read all the books in a row, I didn't want it to be over too soon, and then have to wait not so patiently for the sixth book that's coming next month, on March 2017.

I also wanted to read in between some other books I've already bought. But the problem is after reading

THIS amazing series, it's very hard to connect to other writing styles. Expectations are too high. At least this happened to me.

Now that I have an ARC for Guns n' Boys: Bloodbath I can't read fast enough!!! *super excited****

Back to my most favorite couple: DOM and Seth! *fanning***

In this book they had such a difficult time trying to stay low, under the radar. I was sad to find a very insecure Seth and such a haunted Dom. They had to fight their own demons, but it pained me to read about the huge wall between them. I understood both their worries and fears, but I trusted they will find their way back to each other, and I was right.

Mark is a young (16 going on 17) but sweet new character, despite his painful past and awful decisions. I didn't know for how long he will be staying with Dom and Seth, but I must mention I didn't trust him. I was afraid he'll make things harder for the both of them and again I was right, even if Dana "helped" a lot too... I hate her guts! I also don't know what's her deal. She is SO obsessed with Dom and wanting him as her training coach. I hope she'll not disappoint them even more than she already did. For now I can't stand her.

Well Mark grew up on me and also got under my skin. I knew our boys will not let him go that easily.

This book was a combination of sweetness and a lot of unexpected things: alligator wounds, blood, swamp, bombs, bullets, rescues, abducted victims, motorcycle club. About the latter I must admit I was surprised to bump into the Coffin Nails MC.

I've read some books in the Sex & Meyhem series, but I haven't read One Step Too Close: Coffin Nails MC Louisiana. Now I really want to read about Jed and Ryder! They had something going on, that's for sure! Ryan was too protective with Jed and I felt sorry for Jed to have to hide the fact he was attracted to men, because his club was full of homophobes! God, I wanted to punch them all, starting with Ryder, but then I realized nothing is what it seems and now I want to read their story too.

I don't want to give too much, but this book had my heart in my throat, again. Well I expected this since each and every book has such a unique way of getting to you and making you want for more.

Off I go to the next book, Guns n' Boys: Chokehold.

CC says

4.5 Stars!

In Swamp Blood, the fourth book in the Guns n' Boys series, three months has passed since Seth Villani was injured and Domenico Acerbi "brokered" their deal for freedom. While still maintaining a low profile and traveling throughout the Louisiana bayou, Dom and Seth are trying to move forward in their new chosen lives. While each doesn't have any regrets, the repercussions of what occurred continue to plague Seth and Dom in different ways. For Seth, he is physically scarred and needs to be able to prove his strength as a partner while Dom just wants to Seth as he is.

“I just don’t understand what I did that you keep pushing me away. What else could there be if not a man on the side?” Dom asked eventually.”

Added to the mix is Mark Copescu, a 16 year old runaway with his own painful experiences. Trying to live on his own but failing miserably, he manages to draw the attention of Dom and Seth during a not so private moment. At first, Dom is resistant and Seth is welcoming but what ensues is unexpected and endearing as Mark ultimately adds to the ongoing storyline.

“Domenico raised his hand. “Rule number one, kid – don’t steal my food. Rule number two – never use the words ‘sweet’ or ‘cute’ when referring to men. Words and semantics matter.”

When Domenico’s temperament is tested, he manages to draw serious attention leading to unwanted complications. As such, he is forced to form a begrudging alliance with a local motorcycle club but also uncovers information that the Villani family might be involved in illegal activity in the south. In an effort to clear matters, Dom acts and feels the adrenaline rush that intoxicates his senses. Additionally, Seth rises to the task that sets a precedent in just how things are changing.

“I’d go to the depths of hell with you.” Domenico grinned as if they’d just agreed to elope in Hawaii, and grabbed Seth’s wrists, putting them over Seth’s head. “You’d be safe in hell with the devil himself.”

In each book of this character driven series, more layers are revealed showing the dimension to Domenico and Seth and also how they are evolving together yet remaining true to their core. With these boys, they have unbridled passion and a unique connection that compliment their own personalities. With what occurred in Swamp Blood, I’m anxious to see how these two continue as a couple. As always, Dom and Seth continue to scorch the pages of my Kindle leaving me a hot mess!

“Is that what you need? For me to take what I want, come in your mouth and make you swallow it all?”

Overall, Swamp Blood provides another dimension to the overall plot with emotional conflict, adrenaline spiked action and incredible character chemistry. I look forward to moving on to book five, Chokehold. For those who haven’t tried a taste of these Sicilian men, I highly recommend!

5 'intensely gratifying and explosive' stars

KA Merikan did it again. Dom and Seth are explosive as ever. I'm loving the inclusion of the teenage Mark and Coffin Nails MC as well. This series totally kickass!

Is a series full of love, passion, lust, action, suspense, friendship and main more.

The misfit team:

Domenico - ex-mafia hitman and currently on the run with his lover, Seth. As his name imply, he is a total Dom to the core.

"Me? I'm Domenico Acerbi. I'm invisible."

Seth - ex-mafia prince and an awesome cook. Not much of a fighter, but is the courage that counts.

"If you die, I will go and get myself killed."

Dana - Dom's protege wannabe. Pretty kickass, but mostly a bitch.

Mark - a runaway and cocky little gay teenager

"You guys seriously not up for a threesome? I give good head."

Dom and Seth love hard and fight harder. They often can't stand each other and getting into squabble and argue like old married couple. But there is no denying they are both crazy and obsessively and insanely in love with each other.

I just figured the sooner I die of a stroke or hypertension, the happier you'll be. And that's what I do all the fucking time, try to make you happy." ~ Dom

Seth is not coping well and his self esteem is taking a hit after his encounter with Vincente in the last book. He is driving Dom crazy with his distance and foul temper. Meanwhile, Dom's crazy jealousy outburst is always entertaining and seeing how he went all alpha on Seth never fail to left me panting.

Mark is a runaway teenager who was performing tricks to get by. When Dom and Seth save him from a certain violent biker, Mark's miserable life seems to turnaround. I'm loving the backstory that KA crafted for Mark. On the outside, he seems like a little cocky shit, but after getting to know him, I can't help but wanting to go all mama bear on him.

I don't feel much for Dana, so when KA Merikan told me about this new character, Mark, I was instantly skeptical. I don't like anyone to disturb Dom and Seth's dynamic. But color me surprise that not only I ended up loving Mark, I actually want him to be a permanent fixture in the series. He is like a son that Dom and Seth will never have and I also enjoy seeing Seth and Dom's relationship from Mark's POV.

As Mark watched them, for the first time he wasn't fantasizing about a threesome, but feeling a bit like a third wheel instead.

The first half emphasize more on Dom and Seth's relationship issue and the introduction to Mark. While the second half is where the action and suspense coming in spade. Dom get to tango with the Coffin Nails MC and reluctantly gotten involve in a human trafficking organization.

I didn't read about the Coffin Nails MC series, but holy shit, they are the bomb! I read a lot of MC series, but with KA Merikan I know I shouldn't expect them to be cookie cutter. There are so much violence and mayhem and I felt sorry for the next person who cross path with Dom or the Coffin Nails.

Overall, I just gotta say this series still can surprise me. I'm not ready for this badass series to end anytime soon. Is always refreshing to read about new couple, but with Dom and Seth, I feel a special kind of kinship with them. I love knowing all their little quirks and their in depth history. They make me laugh, cried, heart palpate and doesn't want their story to end.

"Can't being the best I can be for you be a purpose?"

"You are already the best for me, Seth."

Bring on South America!

The series reading order and my reviews

Guns n'Boys: Book 1 Part 1

Guns n'Boys: Book 1 Part 2

Guns n'Boys: Paris

Guns n'Boys: Homicidal Instinct

Guns n' Boys: Swamp Blood

Ele says

"I'd go to the depths of hell with you."

Domenico grinned as if they just agreed to elope to Hawaii, and he grabbed Seth's wrists, putting them over Seth's head.

"You'd be safe in hell with the devil himself."

Domenico Acerbi and Seth Villani are supposed to be dead. All they have to do is lay low for a while, until they make it to South America. Yeah, right.

Deep into the Louisiana swamps, the story goes on and it's packed with action. Gator wrestling, helicopters and tanks and more than one encounters with the local motorcycle club, the Coffin Nails (which is the perfect springboard for One Step Too Close - Coffin Nails MC Louisiana ). But above all, love, passion, funny moments and super steamy sex scenes.

Dom & Seth

This book starts with these two going through a rough patch in their relationship. Seth feels insecure about his injuries by Vincente and the fact that he has gained some weight. Dom doesn't know what he did wrong and is frustrated that Seth won't let him touch him. But they always find their way to each other and when they finally make love after so much time it is so very romantic and super hot *cough*role playing *cough*.

Dom is more possessive and in love with his man than ever. Seth is his adorable self, who always tries to help but he'd better stick to cooking. They still push each other away and fight hard, but they always make love harder.

Mark

Mark is a 16-year-old prostitute. He's a runaway and gets in trouble constantly. During one of these times, Dom and Seth are there to save him and eventually he sticks with them. At first, he is a burden, another thing they must take care of. By the end of the story though, Mark becomes a member of their family. In more ways than one. But I'll leave that to see for yourself.

I know some readers do not appreciate multiple POV in their books, because in a way it "steals" space from their favorite characters. Personally, I don't mind provided that it benefits the story. Mark has his own POV here, and it does take a lot of space but this is definitely an advantage. Not only he is an intriguing and very interesting character that is here to stay, but it was so much fun seeing Seth and Dom through someone else's eyes.

I don't know how I feel about that bitch, Dana. I'm pretty sure she's a sociopath and I don't trust her at all. But we'll see how that goes.

Favorite moments:

*Dom getting all crazy jealous in the gym.

*Dirty hot sex and role playing outdoors.

*Seth getting drunk and trying to save Mark like he's starring in a crappy action movie.

*Dom after saving Mark one last time towards the end.

Needless to say, if this love story has crawled under your skin too, this is a must read. Highly recommended!
