Them and Us Mark Freeman

In 3066 the war on mother earth had escalated beyond the humans reasoning and as the population had almost dwindled to a point of ceasing to exist, the fairies, imps and mythical beings had perceived this and watched with awe. Now the humans had to get help from something that could benefit both parties and asked for a seelie court or the light court- this had proved beneficial for the humans as this was answered by the science boffins area of the folklore world. The humans gave them people to be experimented on and also false promises, in exchange the boffins would create an army for the humans and weapons that would herald a new beginning in the start of the genetically engineered imps and the army that would be used for their purposes, but in their act to play god they did not realize that sometimes playing god can be a fatal mistake.
