Everlastingly Michelle M. Pillow

How do you find something that you don't know is lost?

On the run from her attackers and battered by a winter storm, Maura O'Brian battles her way through the snow, desperate and alone. She stumbles upon what she believes to be a secluded, abandoned farmhouse where strange voices are more frightful than what awaits outside. The signs keep pointing to the same person—Jack. His very name fills her heart with such intense longing she'll do anything to find him.

Is Jack real or simply her fevered imagination hoping for a miracle?

From Reader Review Everlastingly for online ebook

Robin says

Very clever hauntingly endearing tale with ghost and paranormal elements that bring in the magical touch. The first half of the story is a bit confusing but that is done so that we are in Maura's mind. We are experiencing her confusion right along with her so as the story unravels, we become enlightened along with her. The story is one of a love that is not only forever but also strong enough to break through the unnatural forces and barriers. A short riveting story of Maura and Jack and their timeless love.

Review forthcoming on <http://a-reader-lives-a-thousand-live...>

I received a copy of Everlastingly in exchange for my review.

Maura is trapped in a room seemingly with no doors, and has to find a way to escape. Constantly finding a small door and a skeleton key she keeps following the path, which keeps bringing her back to Jack. Jack knows that she has to remember the truth of her past for herself but reminds her of Everlastingly. As bits and pieces of her memory return, the events leading to Maura's entrapment become clear, though sometimes the truth is even more shocking than the fiction...

Everlastingly threw the reader straight into the story. Right from the first word there was little doubt that Maura was in trouble, but it was also clear that there was no idea exactly what that trouble was. I thought that it was exciting to be along with the character for the ride and really liked the fact that as a reader I was kept in the dark. Though I did have several suspicions while reading, it wasn't until about two thirds of the way through the book that I figured out what exactly was happening.

The use of repetition in the story was certainly interesting, and there was a slight double take where I thought I'd accidentally gone back a few pages (which I've definitely done before by accident). Though when I realised what was supposed to be happening I thought that it worked well, and added to the plight of the character.

One thing I'm still not all too sure about is whether the ending is happy or just bittersweet. I won't say what it is (because that would be mean!) but I do wonder, though I suppose it depends on how you take the events. One character was very very sweet towards the other, which does make me lean towards out right happy.

And finally...just look at the cover and how pretty it is! They say don't judge a book by it's cover (and I didn't) but isn't it just amazing! Everlastingly was definitely worth a read!

I really enjoyed this short story by Michelle M. Pillow. Maura is running from unknown attackers, as a reader, you can feel her panic and desperation to find help. Maura believes she has found help when she sees a small light in the distance, she makes her way to the light and stumbles over a fence, but only has time to say “help” before she blacks out.

Maura wakes up in the abandoned farm house; she has no idea how she got inside, or if this is actually a safe place to be. She hears voices that whisper about a man named Jack, but she is sure that she doesn’t know a man named Jack. The reader can sense Maura’s confusion while she is trying to get away from the farm house, find out who Jack is, and determine where she is.

I don’t want to give too much away, but the twist in this short paranormal romance was a surprising one and it was very unique. This seemed like a grown up version of Alice in Wonderland, small doors and skeleton keys; but with passionate love scenes. I really liked this one, it was sweet, and passionate, and the story really made me smile.

The ending is good, but there is a lot of confusing story to get there. It does eventually make sense, stick with it and enjoy!

Maria Dimitrova says

It's a strange story. Not at all what I expected. Most of the time I was as confused as the MC. It left me feeling sad and dejected. The story had a somewhat happy ending but still the overwhelming feeling was one of loss.

Love is never dies, it is sometimes misplaced. In this case Maura is so lost and confused. She cannot find her Jack. The man that is to be married to her. The one that makes her hear skip a beat. Oh where has he gone? In this twist of fate romance, death comes for Maura and Jack but their spirits live on. They are stuck in a lovers trick loop. Will they find one another again for eternity? This is a true loves tale. Tragedy took Maura away from Jack. Will love help them find their way? Will strange clues help Maura get back to where she belongs? This romantic novella is a sweeter side to true love. Michelle shows us that love is truly everlastingly.

Fantastic story!

Maura is stuck in a loop, over and over again. She remembers some things, but always she gets sent back to a point in time and never remembers anything.

Jack is waiting patiently for Maura to remember, but he cannot give her any help or clues.

This is such a wonderfully heart rending story of true love, one that could easily be a fairy tale in times of old. It was so good that I finished it in only a few hours, not wanting to set my kindle down for even a second!

At first I couldn't figure out what was going on, why they kept repeating everything, but as Maura learns of the past and why things were happening the way they were, I started to cry (good tears though!). I yearned for them to find peace and happiness (they do in the end!) and when I found out the truth of it, the why of things, I couldn't help but "aww" at it all!

This is easily one of Michelle M. Pillow's most touching stories!!!

Read in ALPHA'S FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Such a sad story, my heart broke for Jack and Maura.

Gizzie says

Wow! This story is very poetic in nature. The cold Michelle weaves reaches out from the pages and goes right through you, but leaves your heart warm in the end.

Talltree says

3.5 suspenseful stars!! I adored how much the H loved the h. Even though it was a short read, it was impactful and the novella made me cry. There is a trigger though but I don't want to share it since it will reduce the whole effect of this PNR read.

Kristen Johnson says

Everlastingly is a short paranormal romance story. Though it is a short story, it is packed with emotions and suspense.

Everlastingly keeps you guessing just what is going on and how things will end for Maura and Jack. Though you don't understand what is going on at first, this story is not confusing, rather it pulls you in and forces you to see through the unknown and work towards figuring out the secrets.

I found this story to be a perfect blend of paranormal ghost story suspense and a romance that lasts forever and fights against everything.

Side Note: I don't think I have ever seen a cover that fit the story so perfectly as this beautiful one does.

Awesome! 5 stars

Wow! What a unique story!! I have never been one for “ghost” stories, however this is now my second one & I loved it!! I found this to be such a sweet and romantic read that is so very very creative! I was wondering what was happening but at the same time I couldn’t put it down UNTIL I found out what was going on! Like having things play over & over until the mystery is solved! Or rather until Maura can and does figure it out! Michelle has written this so beautifully that while you don’t understand what is happening, it is done in a way that doesn’t confuse you. In fact I thought it was done quite perfectly! Enough information to have you wondering, enough mystery and suspense to keep you guessing and just the right amount of romance and emotion that you can’t help but keep reading until it is all “solved” and the HEA is FINALLY there! Or is it?? Read on and find out for yourself! You know if it has Michelle’s name on it, it is going to be a great read and this one is no different!

Short story with paranormal ghost story and sensual detail. Confusing at first but beautiful at the end. Gorgeous cover.

Maura is running to escape her attackers and finds refuge in a strange house that she can't seem to escape from. In this house, she keeps hearing voices speaking about Jack, a name she doesn't know, yet seems so familiar.

The story felt like a dream, when you're running around trying to find something that is so close but just out of reach. As Maura finally begins to remember, the story takes a violent turn and then you understand most of what's really happening.

This was an almost ethereal tale that kept me surprised, wondering, fearing, my heart almost breaking before everything turned into a beautiful story of love. I also appreciated that the end remained open, you're not certain what the future holds but the present brings a smile on your face.

A very good discovery, I need to read the other books I own by this author.

This was an ARC that I read and reviewed honestly this was a very intriguing short story that I have read in a long while it was mysterious as well and a page turner of a young woman who was running for her life while her fiance' was trying to keep her from being attacked it was a cold night and she kept running not knowing where she was going but wanting to find help for both of them when she saw this farm house and light in the window she thought she was safe and woke up in a room where she was warm and now the story begins. A beautiful romance that touches the heart. I Recommend definitely a 10 short story.
