The Pursuit Of My Truth L.J. Pocock

When everything you believe becomes a lie and every truth you hold dear is ripped away from you, you reach new levels of resilience and determination. Presented with the unthinkable truth I faced every fear I had, every demon that haunted me and strived forward to unveil the biggest deceit of them all; the truth of my very existence. Tormented by lies and allegations, abandoned, deceived, abused and almost destroyed I fought back to reclaim my inner peace. Travel with me through the labyrinth of my life and discover how I became a real life Cinderella against all the odds. Facing my fears, finding the courage to keep moving forward and ultimately remaining true to my life mantra which is, Lead With Love

This is a MUST read book. I started reading this book one evening and literally couldn't put it down. It tells the amazing story of a young women's journey through life. Everyone has a few ups and downs in life and some knocks on the way, but this women's story will pull at anyone's heart strings. The strength of the author really shines through in the book and she displays courage throughout her journey even when things seemed impossible. A true inspiration, and a definite must read book x

I read this book and was moved by it. It takes a lot of courage to put one's heart on display for whomever in this world would care to witness. Lisa has done that in this book. I, for one, wish that this world had more people who were able to listen to their heart and use it to guide them in their lives. This world would be much better off.

Being able to move forward in life when it appears that the world is conspiring against you is in itself an amazing feat. To be able to remain optimistic for the light at the end of the tunnel when it appears that the world is covering you with darkness is inspiring. Lisa has moved through that darkness. Her beautiful heart is now outside that tunnel and is flooded with the light.

This book is well done, Lisa. Thanks for sharing your heart with this world. I truly wish more people could share their hearts, and their truths as you have done. I hope that this book will inspire others to do just that....Jim

If you like reading true life story's well this is the one for you . It's very real and hard hitting at times. Life is full of ups and downs and this book will take you there. The author of this book is my sister and it was very overwhelming to meet her for the first time at the age of 42 and just finding out that you have more family and how it came about. Fitting all the bits and pieces together over the years , many questions to be answered?

This is a moving portrayal of a young woman's very personal battle with life. The book is written in a very honest way and without arrogance or pretence that some authors exude. I have noticed from one particular ranting on these reviews that very personal things have been presumed about I.J Pocock, all I can say is read the book for yourselves and make up your own mind, literature is after all personal interpretation.

I enjoyed this book and found it difficult to put down. The reason I enjoyed it was the fact that as a young girl, she found herself in situations that many of us do but because of her back ground didnt have the confidence or social skills to react the way most of us would therefore making the situation more difficult for herself. Most of us learn our social skills from our mothers, she didnt have that option as her mother was not around to help and guide her. However, She didnt sit around crying "woe is me", instead she learnt from her mistakes and moved on. I thought she was very brave in many of her choices. Her visit to America especically. Her courage and drive is to be admired.

I read lots of books but very rarely review them so can not claim to be an expert in any way. All I can say is that I honestly enjoyed this book. I thought it had an innocence to it that appealed to me. I was so glad that she finally found peace for herself. I look forward to reading more from this author.

A truly inspirational tale. If you keep moving forward no matter what life throws your way, you will come out the other end. Everyone has a story to tell. I'm so grateful for you sharing your story with the world. It is so reassuring for anyone going through similar life struggles to know there is a light at the end and that you are not alone. I'm not a big reader but I couldn't put this one down. I wish others had the bravery to write and share. You've inspired me. Lead with love.
