** DEBBIE'S 4 STAR REVIEW ****

This is the third book in the series. This is Dana Di Grazio's story and like the two previous books this one is going to take you on one emotional ride.

Loved Dana. Seriously, the girl had a mouth on her and was not afraid to tell it like it is. She had a rough childhood and it didn't get much better as she entered adulthood. Because of that she kept her heart guarded. Dana didn't believe she was capable of having a relationship with a man so settled for one-night stands. When she meets Peter she starts to realize that maybe deep down inside she wants more than just sex. She was finally able to see herself as possibly having a happily-ever-after if only she could let her guard down and let him in. The problem is that he wants things Dana can't give him and that leads to the question. Is having each other enough or will obstacles that can't be helped stand in their way?

"We were opposites in every way. I was crude. He was refined. I was carefree. He was uptight. Peter needed things I couldn't give him, and I needed someone who would love me unconditionally, flaws and all. It was best to let him ride off into the sunset and never look back."

I loved that this book's main man was not your typical man-whore but a man with morals and beliefs. Peter Fontenot was definitely sex-on-a-stick but also a whole lot more. He wanted the house full of kids with the white picket fence. Peter's childhood was not typical and left him feeling insecure in his own skin.

"I had a plan, and it didn't involve a crass, rude, uncouth woman like Dana Di Grazio."

"But crap it all if she didn't have my d*** standing at attention every time she opened her mouth and all I could think about was how good that mouth would feel wrapped around me."

"I was a sexual amateur compared to her and she would eat me alive if I wasn't careful."

The chemistry between Dana and Peter was defiantly hot. They both were infuriating at times. I wanted to smack them both upside the head and yell at them to get with the program and get their head out of their ass!!

“God, his scent was divine, a sensual mix of the outdoors, hickory smoke and honey. What the fuck kind of combination is that? Sounds like an ad for barbecue sauce. Well, he was definitely a condiment I’d love to dip myself into.”

The story will draw you in and it will take you on a ride full of all kinds of emotions. I am looking forward to the next one because I need to know what happens!

Dana & Peter

Dana is a tell it like it is girl with a large wall surrounding her heart and secrets. Dana & Peter like each other but are very different. Peter is from a Mormon family and does not do the sex without a relationship. Dana is a one-night-stand kind of gal not liking the get to know them or more the tell him about yourself so you can be hurt part of the relationship. Peter does not curse, Dana curses all the time. Peter does not like tattoos. Dana has tattoos. These two were an unlikely match but they seem to be attracted to one another. They seem to be soul mates.

The question is can Peter except Dana for everything she is hiding and protecting? And can Dana except Peter’s inexperience and Mormon upbringing?

In part 1 we learn all of Dana’s secrets and we find out that her Dealership (Father’s dealership) is in some financial trouble. You will suspect Andrea (Her cousin) is behind the problem. There is no solution in part 1 to any of the issues surrounding the Dealership. We learn about Dana’s college boyfriend Aaron that broke her heart and why she is so guarded to open up to people. We learn about Peter’s family and the reason he is not part of that life anymore.

This book is part 1 so there is a Cliffhanger and you will need to jump into Part 2 to answer many of these questions.

Rating: 2 1/2 Stars

Happy Reading!

4.75 Stars

Dana Di Grazio is Hindley Gregor’s best friend and we first met her in Skater Boy, book one of the X-Treme series. She is a fiery character, confident, independent and out going with the worst potty mouth I’ve seen for a while! This tough exterior hides a vulnerability, created from a difficult past, that endears Dana to the reader so her language is easily forgiven.

Peter Fontenot is hot with a capital H, he does stunts on a motorbike, how much more sexy can you get, a man in tight fitting leathers doing something daring and dangerous... I just love that.

An accident in his competition means Peter needs somewhere to stay while he recuperates and Dana's apartment is the perfect place. The pair don't instantly hit it off, he was brought up quite straight laced and women did not act like Dana. He was a little scared of her out spoken nature and thought she was a loose woman, not someone he could respect. The more time they spend together the more he warms to her and realises that first impressions aren't always right and she is in fact more than the brash female she comes across as.

I do love the X-Treme series. I enjoy the way Kay puts words together to create three-dimensional characters that I can relate to. They have so much depth and so many layers that they feel real. The drama's, the laughs, the fun times, and the love, all meld together in perfect proportions to make a five star read, ..... so why only 4.75 stars??

Well I love Rory and Hindley's story (books 1 & 2) so much that they stand on that pedestal way up high where there should be a 10 star rating allowed, and there was a small part of Peters character that I didn't like... He was judgemental and a bit stiff in the beginning and I didn't like him or connect with him as much as I did Rory. Then there were all the heartbreaking events that Dana suffered, it kind of felt too much, how much can one 20 something person live through and still come out so well rounded?

These are just little niggles and really don't warrant the deduction, but I have to somehow define the difference of my depth of enjoyment between the two stories and can only do that by my rating!

I recommend this series to EVERYONE and want the world to read it and discover for themselves what a fantastic storyteller and 'writer' Kay Manis is.

Moto boy is the first half of Dana and Peters story.

Dana as we all know is the foul mouth, crude best friend of Hindley the heroine from book 1 & 2.

Peter is a motocross racer in Texas for the X games where he meets Dana at a food stand, she accidentally spills beer all over his shirt.

I am just loving this series of books. I loved book 1&2 and I was wondering whether or not to go on because I loved Rory and Hindley... However, book 3 has been even better. I love Dana! she will represent a lot of women out there. Her family past and health issues all make this book fab! Adding Peter into the equation is just a match made in heaven. But I hope they can work out family problems and Dana's infertility. I look forward to book 4

I'm loving Dana from book one and now she gets her chance at love with Peter. As we all know, Dana is one spitfire with a sassy and foul mouth. On the outside, she seems confident and sure of herself, but on the inside, she is so insecure and feels alone since Hindley is married.

Peter, a friend of Rory's, is a Moto X Rider and when he's injured, Dana comes in to save the day offering to take care of him. Little did poor Peter know that when he agreed to stay that his life would forever be changed. He's never seen such a foul mouth on a woman because he's had a strict upbringing. It's amazing how opposites can attract and I love seeing Peter and Dana break down their walls to be what the other needs.

Dana has been through so much and feels so inadequate but Peter is just a sweetheart in how he wants to take care of her, but Dana has always been so independent that she is lost trying to let someone else take care of her.

Peter is definitely one of a kind and his love for Dana is AMAZING!!

ByoBook Club says

Everyone says everything happens for a reason but sometimes some things are just so hard to understand and we never know when love is just around the corner. Dana lives everyday like it's her last. She never takes anything for granted because she learned at an early age that things can happen at a drop of a dime and even when it happens you never realize how drastic your life can become. Peter is living his dream but what many don't know is that to live his dream he had to leave his past behind. Sometimes our past does not want to stay that way, the past. But while he was running away to live his dream he forgot about his family.

This was actually a really good story I enjoyed it quite a bit. Peter and Dana both have secrets that we hopefully will learn about in book two, which I cannot wait to read. This story will definitely have you wanting more of Dana and Peters story.

This was a good read. But I am learning that when this author likes to leave on a cliffhanger it feels abrupt. It was like that with the first book in this series and it feels that way with this one.

I really liked Dana in the other books, so I was excited that she got her own book... Though I admit I thought it would be with Leif. So that was a shock. But I have to say I like Peter.

Dana is loud and has no filter. Peter is the exact opposite. Dana has been a bit promiscuous in the past while Peter has not been. I do love a good opposites attract story. One thing that seems to be a common theme in these stories is that fact that both the heroine and hero come with a lot of emotional baggage. I really feel like this whole group of people just drew the shitty end of the stick... I was hoping for a little something different this time around and I hope the final book doesn't throw more in the way.

Peter and Dana work good together though so I will be reading the final book in order to wrap up their story.

Readers cannot go wrong with the brilliantly woven stories of Kay Manis. Dana and Peter are perfect. Peter is panty-melting and Dana is loud and foul-mouthed. I just love the chemistry that continues from Moto Boy. The plot is superb. If you enjoy contemporary romance at all, this is a story you need to read. It's just fabulous. ***STANDING OVATION***

Kitty Via says

Omg I love Dana and her I don't give a Flying F**k attitude. She has a tough exterior she built around her heart because of the things she has gone through.

She "meets" Peter when she spills her beer on him. From that moment she has a feeling she tries to fight.

Peter is a hot motorcyclist that is so opposite of Dana, She has a trucker mouth and tells ya like it is. Peter he hardly ever cusses. He falls for Dana the minute she spills her beer.

Peter has an accident that leaves Dana wanting to care for him but wont let anyone know that. She makes it seem like he is sorta of an inconvenience to be there.

Will Peter tear down her walls?

When I started Moto Boy, I could not put the book down until I was finished. It drew me in from the very beginning and would not let me go. It is actually my first read by Kay Manis, but it is definitely not my last. I absolutely fell in love with this story.

Dana Di Grazio is a fierce spitfire. She takes crap from no one, but inside she vulnerable. She has lost so much in life and is afraid to give all her heart to anyone that has the chance of hurting her again. Until she meets Motocross rider Peter Fontenot, and he starts breaking down all the walls that guard her heart. As much as she tries not to let him in, he is just too loveable, but when a unexpected call comes in and he has to leave, Dana is left questioning everything that he has and has not said and is left questioning if he is the man that she can open her heart up to.

I FINALLY got to read it after it has been on my device since release day.

Moto Boy was great Dana and Peter both have struggles but Dana run deep. From what I gathered things are about to get a whole lot more complex in their conclusion.

Kay Manis delivered more than what I was expecting and grasped deeper feelings and hurt than Skater Boy and I didn't think that was possible. Dana was raw in language and in bed but the best part was her heart. Peter was a pleaser and visionary and he pleased Dana and himself until the visions got blurry. I am on to My Moto Boy and hopefully I can sustain the anguish that is sure to unfold.

Chu says

I have always liked Kay Manis and her books. And this one has been somewhere in my TBR list, and finally, I have the time to read it!!!! I was glad I did before the year ended, because Dana's story just made my year, and permanently placed Kay Manis in my favorite authors list.

I already like Dana the first time I met her in Skater Boy - she's beautiful, loud, feisty, fierce and a loyal friend to Hindley. I was looking forward into reading her story, her HEA and everything that comes in between.

Dana has more to her than what we know. She might project a strong facade, but deep inside she has some issues, some baggage why she's living her life the way she does. Series of loss, heartaches, and bad experiences had made her built all those walls surrounding her heart. She might enjoy some male company, but she'll never, ever put her heart on the risk. UNTIL HIM.

Peter Fontenot is the complete opposite of Dana. He's the good guy, the man who doesn't sleep around, the person who wants a long-term relationship, a family and those kids too. He was at the top of his career when he met her, and no one could deny the sparks that was sent off around them the moment they laid eyes on each other. Problem is, she isn't exactly the type of woman who was suited for him. But of course, who can stop fate? No one. When an accident made Dana his caretaker, he found another side of her that made him reconsider.

But would their differences ignite the sparks or extinguish it? Would their secrets determine their future?

I loved it, every bit of it. I like the mystery that surrounds both characters, their individual backgrounds, their issues, the twists and not to mention the familiar characters who are living their HEA. It was the usual insta-attraction, but thank goodness, Peter was a bit old-school when it comes to getting down to the deed. So the anticipation was well-built, when they finally came together - it was so worth the wait. Peter wasn't as boring as I thought he would be.

It's sweet, it's romantic, it's HOT. Another book to love - me? I couldn't help but be glued to it. I couldn't miss how everything will turn about.

Hold on to your readers though, because the last part of this book would made you grab the next one in the series, My Moto Boy. Kay Manis sure knows how to break a heart or two or make it stop for a while, but hopefully we (of course Peter & Dana) would get the HEA we longed for.

Kay Manis has done it again. She brings two completely different personalities together. The chemistry between these two will melt your reading device. Dana is drawn to Peter and tries to fight it with everything she has. Kay has an uncanny ability to bring two unlikely characters together. Dana and Peter have a very hot relationship.

This book will have you hooked from the moment you open it yet again. Kay makes her reads exciting with humor and heartbreak. ## Carra says

First off, I have to say--I absolutely LOVE Dana. Her quirky and fun personality, her tremendous strength, her loyalty to friends and family and complete devotion to her brother...she is a perfect heroine, and is my favorite character in this story.

Next, Peter. Wow, I don't know who in their right mind would not want him. Thoughtful, prepared, smart, sexy, is true to his values and follows his dreams, making them happen through hard work and dedication.

But then, put the two of them together...at first it's a clash of opposites. Dana with her funky, outgoing and a bit crazy attitude and Peter with his straight-laced, planned-out life, the two of them together may seem like a recipe for disaster--but it's actually the beginning of something highly intense and emotional where you can't imagine them not being together.

Enter the secrets. The troubles of their pasts. Their current difficulties. And then for good measure, slap a bit of a bombshell on them at the end. It all makes for an unputdownable read, punctuated by a cliffhanger that will have you scrambling for the next book (I know I sure as hell am!).

Fun, intense, riveting...and a 4.5-star read for me. I would recommend reading the first two books in the X-Treme Boys series first just to get the background of Hindley and Rory (Dana's best friend and her best friend's husband...it's great to see so much of them in this book!), it really will add to your enjoyment of this one.
